

MORRIS ROSENBLUM

Area Attorney Eyed for Federal Judgeship

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

Saugerties lawyer Morris Rosenblum is under serious consideration for a federal judgeship in the U. S. Court, Southern District of New York, the busiest court in the world. The post pays $40,000 annually for life.

His appointment has the approval of both U. S. Senators James L. Buckley and Jacob K. Javits. The Freeman has learned. A presidential appointment, it needs the consent of the U. S. Senate.

Thursday night the Ulster County Bar Association passed a unanimous resolution stating that Rosenblum is "preeminently qualified by training, experience, temperament, integrity and personality to grace that distinguished bench."

Ulster County has only had one other federal judge during its history, the late John M. Cashion.

Rosenblum, 62, a graduate of New York University with a BA degree in 1932 and a JD degree in 1934, was editor of the Law Review at NYU.

A former member of the prestigious New York City law firm of Saxe, Bacon and Shea, he was associated with them in 1935 when they were one of the nation's leading firms on corporate reorganization in the aftermath of the Depression. Rosenblum was employed by Gerdes as research assistant in preparation of publication "Gerdes on Corporate Reorganization Under the Bankruptcy Act."

Special

In October of 1935 he opened an office for general practice of law in Saugerties and in 1950 formed a partnership with Daniel L. Lamb, under the name of Rosenblum and Lamb. The partnership still continues.

Rosenblum was appointed Saugerties village attorney in 1941 and school attorney in 1956, a post he still holds.

His practice was interrupted in 1942 when he volunteered in the U. S. Army and was commissioned a second lieutenant and later to first lieutenant in 1943. He was discharged in 1946 as a major having served in the Pacific Theatre having at all times a "secret" and "top secret" classification. He received various medals and awards for military service.

Rosenblum, a member of Congregation Ahavath Israel, Kingston, was born Sept. 17, 1909, in Flemington, N. J.

His Saugerties law practice has been general in nature, although essentially composed of civil matters, both litigated and non-litigated. Litigated matters have been carried on in courts at all levels in New York State from the court of first instance through Appellate tribunal to the New York Court of Appeals, as well as in Federal District Courts and Circuit Court of Appeals.

Essentially, the clientele have been commercial enterprises—executors of estates, banks, title companies and corporations engaged with real estate developments, as well as large school districts and municipal corporations.

In 1967 Rosenblum formed Canoe Hill Inc., to build the nine-hole Sawyerkill Country Club and he is president of the corporation. The first president of Saugerties Rotary, he is also secretary for Dutch Settlement Inc.

He is a member of the Ulster County and New York State Bar Associations.

He was married to the former Esther Benn in 1957. They have one daughter, Lynne Sarah, and reside at Oakledge Park.

Senators Score Nixon On High Court Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The would announce his choices in the next few days the ABA the Supreme Court in its controversy over filling two Supreme Court vacancies is growing in intensity, with two Democratic senators accusing President Nixon of insulting and cheapening the court.

Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Birch Bayh, D-Ind., sharply criticized the caliber of nominees being considered even before any final selections have been made.

Although Nixon has said he

Water on the Moon? Vapor Is Detected

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A Rice University scientist says water vapor has been detected in the moon's atmosphere by instruments left by Apollo astronauts.

Dr. John W. Freeman told a news conference Friday that the vapor may come from pools of water deep beneath the lunar surface and erupt in geysers which could supply water and energy for colonies on the moon.

A space agency official said the announcement was a "possibly important new discovery about the moon."

"I look at it as a very interesting observation about the moon which nobody had anticipated," said Dr. Paul Gast, chief of planetary and earth sciences at the Manned Spacecraft Center.

Freeman said the water vapor was detected by instruments left by the Apollo 12 and Apollo 14 astronauts. He said the instruments, called suprathermal ion detection experiments (SIDE), are able to sense and identify ionized gases in the near-vacuum of the moon.

On March 7, 1971, Freeman said, the instrument reported three groups of readings which indicated the presence of water vapor clouds which quickly dissipated into space. The scientist said each reading came about two hours after a seismograph had detected a series of small quakes, which he said may have triggered a geyser.

A long analysis of the data, Freeman said, has eliminated all but natural sources for the cloud of water vapor.

Freeman's data goes against most current theories. Many geochemists have said that lunar rocks examined so far indicate the moon has been dry. However, Gast said the findings are not mutually exclusive.

Gast said rocks which have been examined came from no deeper than 100 to 200 kilometers beneath the lunar surface.

"If you go deeper and deeper down," he said, "You may have more volatile material," such as water or water-bearing rock.

Moon quakes detected by the seismographs, he said, are thought to be coming from about 800 kilometers beneath the lunar surface. The water vapor, he said, could come from the same depth.

Freeman said his findings indicated "there's a good possibility of liquid water somewhere on the moon."

The Rice University scientist said this raises the possibility that one day colonies could find and use water on the moon.

Since the water escapes in the form of geysers of hot gas, he said, this could be a source of energy for men living on the moon.

Kennedy and Bayh were leaders in the fights that led to Senate rejection of two Southern judges, Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. and G. Harrold Carswell, who were nominated by Nixon for a previous court vacancy.

Bayh said he would like to avoid the kind of "donnybrook" that developed over the Haynsworth and Carswell nominations because of their divisive effect on the country.

But he said "I am not going to play dead" if Nixon does not submit nominees with distinguished legal ability, unimpeachable personal integrity, and a demonstrated commitment to fundamental human rights.

ACCOLADES — President Nixon and his long-time friend, Evangelist Billy Graham, greet residents of Charlotte, North Carolina to take part in a testimonial rally sponsored by Graham's home-town friends. During the rally, which attracted a crowd of 13,000, Nixon called for a renewal of the religious faith, morality and strength of character that America had when it was young. During the motorcade through the city, Nixon was heckled by a small percentage of the more than 150,000 persons who viewed the procession. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Explosions Damage Two Cars As Agnew Arrives in Greece

ATHENS (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew arrived here today from Persepolis, Iran, for a week-long visit to the land of his forefathers and official talks with the military-supported Greek government.

The visit has resulted in adverse criticism by members of the U.S. Senate and Greek exiles abroad who claim that Agnew's call here is being interpreted as U.S. support for the policies of the authoritarian Athens government.

Agnew was given a welcome worthy of a king, with the entire Greek government, led by Premier George Papadopoulos, on hand at the airport.

Earlier today, groups opposed to the Greek government expressed their displeasure at Agnew's visit with bomb attacks on two U.S. Air Force-owned vehicles. No one was injured.

After leaving his jet, Agnew reviewed a Greek armed forces honor guard with Papadopoulos at his side.

Heavy security measures were in effect. Thousands of police and plainclothesmen were on guard at the airport and along the crowded route which Agnew's motorcade took into the city.

The airport welcome accorded to Agnew for his visit to "the country of my ancestors" was especially significant because of Papadopoulos' presence. It was the first time that the premier had ever been present at the arrival of a foreign dignitary since the military seized power in April 1967.

Agnew spent 70 minutes Friday conferring in Persepolis with Constantine, the self-exiled king who has not seen Athens in nearly four years.

"The meeting was very cordial and very informative," the Vice President said. He added that Constantine requested the meeting.

He would not discuss the substance of his talks with the king, who now maintains his residence in Rome, nor would he say whether he carried to Athens any message or information for the military government of Premier George Papadopoulos.

It will be Agnew's first visit to the land where his father was born Theofrastos Spiro Anagnostopoulos. The Vice President is to go Tuesday to Gargalianoi, the village his father left in 1911 for the United States.

The mission is complex because U.S. policy has been to treat the current regime coolly while seeking to encourage a return to constitutional government. Constantine fled from Greece after attempted coup against the military regime failed.

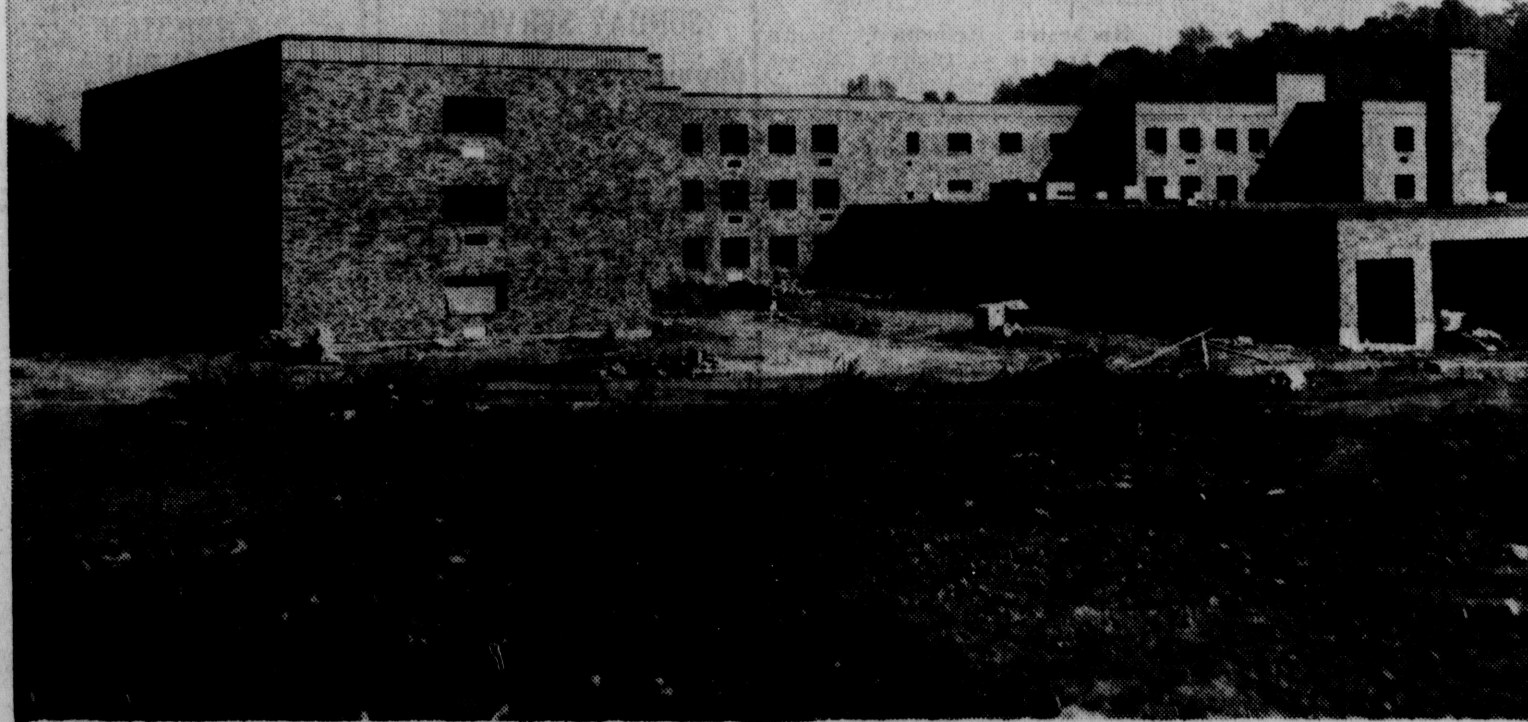

Diplomatic sources say the Vice President has no intention of "cajoling" the Greek leader's talks presumably covered Selassie's visit to Peking meetings, they say, will be to review Greece's role in the North Atlantic Organization and to discuss the possibility of reaching a solution to Cyprus problem.

Groups opposed to the Athens regime have flooded foreign newsmen with open letters to Agnew, charging Washington has supported the military government since its first days.

The state-controlled radio and television network has used the trip as the lead story on every news broadcast for the past week.

Agnew also conferred in Persepolis with Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, just back from a visit to Communist China. President Nixon plans to go to mainland China before next May, and the Vice President's talks presumably covered Selassie's visit to Peking

PROGRESS AT NEW INFIRMARY—Construction of Ulster County's new Infirmary at Golden Hill continues on schedule, with work on the exterior of the building nearing completion. The 200-bed, air-conditioned facility, started in August 1970, is scheduled for occupancy late in 1972. The three-story building will cost more than $4 million. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Vassar Sued for $1 Million, Coed Cites 'Pot Parties'

MINEOLA, N.Y. (UPI)—A petite coed sued Vassar College for $1 million Friday, claiming she flunked out because her roommate held marijuana parties and psychedelic gatherings and sang "with abandon all through the night."

The roommate, identified only as Pamela, "became a focal point of drug users on campus," Raymond Graber of West Hempstead, N.Y., charged in the suit filed on behalf of his brown-haired daughter Nancy, 20. "Pamela insisted that the door from the corridor be kept open at all times when she was in the suite, even throughout the night. I was unable to shut my door to the noise and the haze of pot smoke in the corridor," the suit said.

The girl alleged that, when she complained to Mrs. Elizabeth M. Drouilhet, dean of residence at the former women's college which has since gone coed, she was told "open the window" if marijuana smoke bothered her. Prof. Robert F. Martin, a faculty member who lived in the dorm, said he was "powerless to act in drug matters," Miss Graber alleged.

As a result of sleeplessness brought about by the alleged drug activities, Miss Graber said she flunked out. She also charged she was unable to transfer to another college of her choice because Vassar refused to give her a recommendation.

A spokesman for Vassar said there would be no comment on the suit until the court papers reached the school.

Miss Graber, now attending Adelphi College on Long Island where she said she is getting a 3.8 grade average on a 4 point scale, said in the suit, "The drug users held psychedelic gatherings, played loud music and singing with abandon all through the night both in our suite and elsewhere in the corridor.

"Regularly, while Pamela was on a 'trip,' she would play her guitar and sing throughout the night, oblivious to her surroundings. Therefore it was impossible to study or sleep in our suite."

Donald F. McCarthy, Miss Graber's attorney, described her as "very conservatively oriented. After a mediocre first semester beginning in 1969, the girl went downhill in her second semester in 1970, he said.

New York State Supreme Court Justice Steven B. Derounian signed an order preventing Vassar from giving Miss Graber a bad recommendation until Oct. 26, when a hearing is scheduled.

Teen Challenge Rally At Phoenicia Church

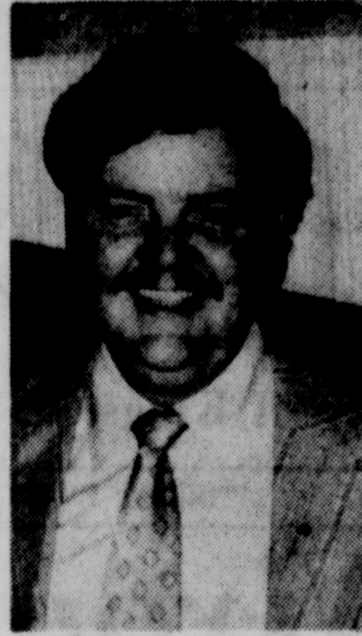

PHOENICIA The Teen Challenge Institute of Rhinebeck will hold an area-wide Rally at the First Baptist Church, Phoenicia, on Sunday, Oct. 24, 7:30 p.m.

The rally will consist of the Teen Challenge Choir under the direction of the Rev. John Kenzy, president of the school. The choir members are former drug addicts once enslaved on heroin, speed, LSD and other drugs, as well as alcoholism. All the choir members are now students at the Teen Challenge Bible School. The soloist for the choir is Morgan Welch, baritone, who was also hooked on drugs and alcoholism.

Following the choir numbers, the students of the school will present a one hour play-drama entitled "Driftwood," which was written by the student body. This play depicts the decay of American home life, the teen age rebellion and the problems of drug addiction.

The Teen Challenge Institute has been in operation since November, 1965, at its present site in Rhinebeck. The over-all Teen Challenge Ministry now has induction centers in 29 major cities in the nation and Puerto Rico and 11 centers in foreign countries. The ministry was started by the Rev. David Wilkerson, a young minister who went into the streets of New York City and Brooklyn to work among gangs, junkies and lawless ones, and often at the risk of his life. A full feature color motion picture of The Cross and the Switch Blade, a book written by the Rev. Wilkerson, which is a six million copy best seller and translated into 32 languages, is now being shown across the nation. The public may attend the rally. A special invitation is extended to all church groups, youth groups, parents, all young people and all interested people. The Rev. Leslie Kellner is pastor of the church.

Pastor Assumes Greek Church Post

KINGSTON The Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of North and South America has announced the recent appointment of the Rev. John Pitses as pastor of the St. George Greek Orthodox Church of Kingston.

Father Pitses comes to Kingston after more than 15 years of pastoral experience at the Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox Church of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Father Pitses, a native of Detroit, attended the University of Detroit and Holy Cross Greek Orthodox Theological School at Brookline, Mass., now Hellenic College. He completed his theological studies at the University of Athens in 1955 at which time he was awarded an LIC degree and a masters in theology. During his stay in Athens, Father Pitses was ordained a deacon at the Cathedral of Athens and undertook the duties of deacon at the Prophet Elias Church of Athens.

He was ordained a priest in May, 1956 and shortly after accepted the call to Holy Trinity. He also serves as Eastern Orthodox Chaplain at the veterans administration hospital in the Pittsburgh area.

He has written two books, Man Who Does Nothing, and Travel on Sea of Life, which he expects to be published in the near future.

Father Pitses, his wife Helen and their two children will reside at 109 Pearl Street.

REV. JOHN PITSES

Farmers' Office to Accept Applications

KINGSTON announcement made by Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. Fish announced Friday that the White House had notified him that Ulster County has been declared a major disaster area as a result of the damage caused by rains and storms in the latter part of August.

Applications for aid to clear flood damage from Ulster County lands and for municipalities to secure funds for restoration of bridges and highways may be made with the Farmers Home Administration Office at 41 Pearl Street, according to

On Sept. 17, seven counties were declared disaster areas, including Dutchess County. This week it was announced that six more counties were similarly designated, including Ulster County.

Ulster County is available for the restoration of bridges, highways and other municipal damage caused by the storms. In addition individual residents can receive aid in clearing land of flood damage while businesses can receive federal disaster loans from the Small Business Administration. Through FHA, loans will also be made to finance crop production, replace livestock and other necessary expenses to restore farming operations to normal.

In early October Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller notified Nixon of the county's request for emergency funds.

Ulster County, through the Office of Civil Defense and Natural Disaster, applied for about $200,000 in emergency funds. Fish did not say how much will be made available to the county.

At the time the request was made Peter J. Savago, chairman of the Ulster County Legislature said he did not foresee any difficulties in securing the requested amount.

County Legislators Approve Fund Measure

KINGSTON Ulster County Legislature, meeting Thursday night, approved a resolution appropriating federal funds under the emergency employment act in order to carry out its public service employment program.

The measure was approved 29 to 2 with Dr. Gerald P. Gorman (D-City) and William West (D-City) opposing the move. Two legislators, Lawrence Craft (R-Dist. 10) and William West (R-Dist. 12) were absent.

The total program for the year amounts to $705,334 of which $624,800 is the federal share and $70,534 is the county share, an estimated $20,000 of which will be cash and $50,534 of which will be in kind.

Memoriam

To my loving husband and father, Joseph McCordie, in memory of his Birthday, October 16.

You were always there to understand.

When we needed someone to care.

You were always there to love us.

When things were hard to bear. But God called you home because He knows best.

Memoriam

In loving memory of Edward J. Dermody who passed away five years ago, October 17.

Should you go first and we remain to walk the road alone.

We'll live in memory's garden, dear, with happy days we've known.

In spring we'll wait for roses red, when faded, the lilacs blue.

In early fall when brown leaves fall.

We'll catch a glimpse of you. Should you go first, and we remain, for battles to be fought.

Each thing you've touched along the way will be a hallowed spot.

We'll hear your voice, we'll see your smile, tho' blindly we may grope.

The memory of your helping hand will buoy us with hope.

Should you go first and we remain, one thing we'll have to do.

Walk slowly down that long, long path, for soon we'll follow you.

We want to know each step you take, so we may take the same.

For some day down that lonely road, you'll hear us call your name.

LOVING WIFE and CHILDREN

Flood Damage Aid

KINGSTON Ulster County Legislature, meeting Thursday night, approved a resolution appropriating federal funds under the emergency employment act in order to carry out its public service employment program.

The resolution was necessary because 25 per cent of the funds must be appropriated for the balance of the fiscal year. Specifically the measure calls for the following appropriations and transfers of funds: $146,066 as a new item, and $17,634 for employee benefits. Also, adding to the new revenue account $158,700 in federal aid.

Minority Leader Roger Mable (D-Dist. 7) commended Charles Scala (R-Dist. 1), chairman of the Drug Commission for taking the action which he said was "a definite step in overcoming a definite problem we have in the county."

A resolution calling for a cost plan for a county park in New Paltz also received approval with Scala voicing disapproval. The resolution was sponsored by S. Robert Kelder (R-Dist. 2).

A measure sponsored by Debrosky calling for the establishment of a Criminal Justice Panel was referred to the Judicial and Legal Committee. The board voted unanimously to enter into an agreement for equipment for Ulster County Community College in the amount of $18,038.71, and another contract for development of Phase II in the amount of $43,668 for alterations to the John Burroughs Science Laboratory.

The board also authorized the county to continue its participation in the Mid-Hudson Crime Control Planning Committee, authorized contracts for drug programs for schools in New Paltz and Kingston, the cost of which will be shared equally by the state and the district with $75,663 for Kingston and $50,000 for New Paltz.

Controversy Adds Spice to Tasty Series

TOP HITTER—The Pittsburgh Pirates' slugging outfielder Roberto Clemente takes batting practice Friday in Baltimore's Memorial Stadium. Clemente has been the outstanding hitter of the World Series so far with nine hits in the first five games. Game six is today with the Bucs ahead, three games to two. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

BALTIMORE (AP) — A tasty little controversy was cooking in right field at Baltimore's grassy Memorial Stadium today as the Orioles and Pittsburgh Pirates met in the sixth game of the 1971 World Series.

The chefs were Roberto Clemente of the Pirates and Frank Robinson of the Orioles—coincidentally, the leading hitters for their respective clubs in this flip-flop series which saw Baltimore win the first two games at home only to have Pittsburgh take three straight on the Tartan surface of Three Rivers Stadium.

The Pirates went for the clincher today with Bob Moose—their sixth different starting pitcher in as many games—opposing second game winner Jim Palmer.

But the pitchers hardly seemed to matter the way Robinson and Clemente have gone at it over the issue of right field.

Clemente, whose nine hits are four short of the series record, started it when he blasted the Baltimore ballpark.

"The conditions of this park are not up to major league standards," said Clemente. "It's hard to pick up the ball in the outfield because of the background. There are ditches out there in right field."

Clemente said the conditions of the field affected the way he played.

"You can't execute the way you're supposed to," the veteran Pittsburgh star said. "I like to play shallow, but in Baltimore, there's no way you can play shallow. If you do, you misjudge the ball."

Clemente claimed the Memorial Stadium outfield is bumpy in many spots.

"You run here, it is high," and then you take two steps and it is low," he said as he indicated the fluctuations of the surface with a wave of his hand.

"Mike Cuellar hit a ball in Pittsburgh that I caught for me," Clemente continued, "because I picked it up right away and could see it. In Baltimore, that ball is a double."

Clemente said he talked to the Pittsburgh players following the two defeats at the start of the series in Baltimore.

"I said to them, 'fellas, we're going to a major league park now. We'll show them that we're not as bad as people think we are.'"

Clemente's blast got a rise out of Robinson, who had seven hits for the Orioles going into today's game.

"He's supposed to be such a great outfielder," said Robinson, "he should be able to adjust to any park."

Clemente, in his 17th season with the Pirates, spent the first 15½ years playing in ancient Forbes Field and Robinson had something to say about conditions there.

"He played in a coal hole all of his career until he came into his new park," said Robinson. "Now he's criticizing other parks. Everyone can't go out and build a new park."

Then Robinson went to work on the Tartan field at Pittsburgh.

"I don't like the artificial surfaces," he said. "I like natural playing fields. It's a different kind of game at Pittsburgh. You have to be wary when a ball is hit to you."

"It's tough in Baltimore," Robinson continued, "but I don't go around crying about it. I just do the best I can. Tell Clemente to sit it out if he doesn't like it. I'll get him a seat in the stands. Tell him to watch the way I play it."

Robinson was sure to be playing right field today as the Orioles battled for their lives against the Pirates, who were trying to become the first team in series history to win four straight games after dropping the first two.

But little else was certain about Manager Earl Weaver's lineup. Weaver said he had his mind made up but was keeping it to himself.

"I'm going to the track today," Weaver said as the Orioles worked out lightly Friday. "And I'm going to try and pick some winners."

Buffalo Change Works

By The Associated Press

"I'm losing a million dollars, and I want to make a change," snapped owner Paul Snyder of the Buffalo Braves in announcing that scout Johnny McCarthy had been named to replace Dolph Schayes as coach.

Snyder's change, made one day after Buffalo had been swamped by Seattle 123-90 in its opening game of the National Basketball Association season, proved beneficial.

McCarthy, in his first game as coach, guided the Braves to a dramatic 111-109 overtime victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers Friday night.

In other NBA games, Los Angeles walloped Detroit 132-103, the Golden State Warriors routed Boston 97-75, Chicago crushed Baltimore 106-82, and Seattle overpowered Portland 119-88.

Buffalo looked almost as bad in the opening quarter against Cleveland as it did in its one game under Schayes, falling behind the Cavaliers by 18 points. But the Braves battled back tenaciously and finally tied the score 97-97 late in the fourth quarter. At the end of regulation time, the teams were deadlocked 101-101.

Buffalo again fell back in overtime 107-105, but Walt Hazzard's jump shot tied the score and Bill Hosket's rebound basket gave the Braves the lead for good.

Hazzard led all scorers with 35 points, 27 after intermission. John Johnson had 22 points for Cleveland.

Los Angeles, making its debut under Coach Bill Sharman who piloted the Utah Stars to the American Basketball Association title last season, overwhelmed Detroit with a balanced offense, paced by Wilt Chamberlain's 26 points and Jim McMillin's 25.

Bob Lanier topped Detroit with 25 points, but scored only one point in the second half.

The Pistons played without all-pro guard Dave Bing, who underwent surgery earlier Friday for a detached retina in his right eye.

The Warriors built a 43-37 halftime advantage against Boston, then pulled away by scoring the first 13 points in the second half. Boston missed its first 13 shots from the floor after intermission and went scoreless for the first 4:35 of the second half.

Jeff Mullins led the Warriors with 28 points, while Jo Jo White was high for the Celtics with 22. Boston's John Havlicek, the league's second highest scorer last season, managed only six points against Golden State.

Bob Love, game high scorer with 31 points, triggered an early Chicago outburst, collecting nine straight points in the first quarter, in the Bulls' romp over Baltimore. Chicago's defense held Baltimore's Earl Monroe to 10 points. Jack Martin led the Bulls with 20 points.

Spencer Haywood and Lenny Wilkens each scored 23 points for the Sonics as the Blazers suffered from erratic shooting. Seattle outscored Portland 69-40 in the second half. Sidney Wicks hit only five of 27 shots from the floor and had an unimpressive 13 point performance.

Webutuck Edges KHS

AMENIA Webutuck High School scored twice in the second period and it stood up as the home team nipped Kingston High School, 2-1, in a DCSL soccer match Friday.

"The kids gave it 100 percent," said KHS Coach John Hunter, "but they didn't execute fundamentals. We'd have run all over them, but we were inconsistent. Everything was rush, rush, rush, and we just weren't trapping the ball."

Webutuck got a gift from the Maroons in the form of a goal at 11:30 of the second when a KHS defender shot one into his own net. Larry McEnroe received credit for the tally.

Some two minutes later, Webutuck caught Kingston in a disorganized state in front of the net and Rich Lamere managed to get it by Geoff Seeger. Bob Bagomolny assisted on the play.

Kingston held the winners scoreless the rest of the way but could only find the range once, that coming on a beautiful play at 9:30 of the fourth quarter when Pete Boyd connected with Pete Fowler.

Fowler took Boyd's superb lead pass and drilled a shot past Jack Crawford in the Webutuck cage.

Kingston outshot Webutuck, 19 to 10, and the Maroons forced goalie Crawford into making 13 saves while Seeger had to stop just nine. The corner kicks were even at four apiece.

The loss put Kingston's record at 4-4-2 on the season. Monday the Maroons go to Oakwood.

Webutuck is 4-3 in the Southern Division of the DCSL, one game behind Poughkeepsie and Ketcham.

Scott Leads Squires

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If the Virginia Squires of the American Basketball Association refer to Charlie Scott as "The Great Scott," who could blame them? Scott, the second-year pro from the University of North Carolina, scored a game-high total of 36 points—11 in the final period—as the Squires rallied for a 118-114 victory over the Carolina Cougars Friday night in the season opener for both teams.

In other ABA games, Indiana defeated Denver 115-104, Utah upended Dallas 116-106, and New York beat Pittsburgh 117-105.

Scott, who averaged 27.1 points a game last season in his rookie year and was named the ABA's co-rookie of the year with Kentucky's Dan Issel, pulled Virginia into a 108 tie with a jump shot late in the fourth quarter. The Squires had trailed by as many as 16 points before the final period.

Then, after tying the score, Scott, Neil Johnson and Jim Eakins led the Squires to victory.

Rookie Julius Erving of Virginia had a game-high 19 rebounds, while seven-foot rookie Jim McDaniels of Carolina collected 32 points and 14 rebounds. Another rookie, Randy Denton, had 23 points for the Cougars.

Indiana, the defending Western Division champion, got off to a quick start against Denver, hitting 12 of its first 19 field goal attempts and never was headed.

Fred Lewis paced the well-balanced Pacer attack with 23 points. Mel Daniels added 21 and Rick Mount had 20.

Art Becker topped Denver with 20 points.

Utah, defending league champion, outscored Dallas 21-4 in the closing minutes to erase a 102-95 deficit and beat the Chaps.

Zelmo Beaty led the Stars with 31 points, followed by Willie Wise with 24 and Glen Combs with 21. Donnie Freeman was high for Dallas with 33. Steve Jones contributed 24 and Rich Jones had 23.

Rick Barry, the ABA's scoring champion two seasons ago, netted 21 points, leading the Nets past Pittsburgh. George Thompson topped the Condors with 19. The Condors' John Brisker, the league's second leading scorer last season, missed the game with a bruised right ankle and an ailing right hand.

Sam Snead Up By Two

PINEHURST, N.C. (UPI)—San Snead, winner of more golf tournaments than any other American pro, has his sights set on a new field to conquer — and Ole Sam's got the range.

In his first bid for a club pro title, Snead held a two-stroke lead today going into the third round of the fourth annual PGA National Club Professional Championship. The famed 59-year-old pro from West Virginia carded his second straight five-under-par round Friday for a 36-hole total of 10-under-par 132.

Snead fired a 65 Friday to go with his 67 on Pinehurst's other layout Thursday. That put him two up on Babe Lichardus of Westfield, N.J., and Jimmy Powell of Yorba Linda, Calif., who had 68 and 70, respectively. Snead sank four birdies and an eagle against a lone bogey for his 65. His eagle came on the 11th where he sank an 18-foot putt which he said was trying to "nurse up close" to the hole.

Snead, who has been having putting troubles, said his new "side-saddle" style was helping. "I'm getting used to it now and I'm putting better," he said.

Tommy Bolt, the PGA Seniors champion and a pre-tournament favorite here, quit after 11 holes. He shot a disappointing 71 Thursday no better luck Friday.

Lourdes Trims Sawyers, 16-47

POUGHKEEPSIE Steve Meier led the pack in ninth and Rich Franchini was a time of 12:45 to pace Lourdes High School to a 16-47 cross country win over Saugerties here Friday.

Meier was followed by teammates Tom Jordan, Jim Meier, and Tim Keating as the home team dominated the meet on the Marist College course.

Peter Timmins of Saugerties was fifth. The Sawyer soph recorded a time of 13:36, just ten seconds slower than the third place finisher.

"Pete's only a sophomore," said Saugerties Coach Bud Smith, "and he's getting better with each race."

Don Brown of Saugerties was ninth and Rich Franchini was 11th. Jeff Schoemer and Mark Limeri completed the Sawyer scoring.

The winless Saugerties team has a home meet on Tuesday against DCSL powerhouse Ketcham.

100 Years of Sports

CHARLES J. TIANO

This is strictly for the young sports buffs of the area.

Would you believe that for one year the world's professional basketball championship belonged to Kingston?

Would you believe that four world's boxing champions made frequent early-career appearances as amateurs in Kingston?

Can you guess how many major league baseball teams played exhibition games at the old Fair Grounds, now the site of Dietz Stadium?

How many baseball Hall of Famers played in Kingston with their regular National League teams? More than you think.

THE SPORTS SECTION of The Daily Freeman's 100th Anniversary Monday will give you the answer to these and many other intriguing aspects of Kingston's glorious sports past. Kingston's claim as the greatest sports city in the Hudson Valley has never been seriously challenged by its sister cities Poughkeepsie and Newburgh.

As a matter of fact, it is doubtful that any city under 30,000 population in the United States can match Kingston's involvement in sports from the period between 1905 through 1951 when the last of the minor league franchises folded.

Months of intensive research through The Freeman files and personal scrapbooks, supported by countless interviews, many with sports figures of the past in their 70s and 80s, unfolded the Kingston sports legend. It isn't a perfect document. There are some flaws perhaps some omissions and some teams and individuals may have been overlooked—but never intentionally. On balance, we think it is a superb documentation of the sports glory that was once Kingston's.

HOW ABOUT SOME of those names and teams that will parade before you. The four boxing champions? Mello Bettina, Lou Ambers, Marly Servo and Sugar Ray Robinson.

Joe Louis made one guest appearance in Kingston as a referee. Primo Carnera came to town as a wrestler and drew one of the largest crowds ever to jam the municipal auditorium.

Frank (Pop) Morgenweck's 1922 Kingston Colonials defeated the Original Celtics (with Johnny Bechman, Nat Holman and Pete Barry) for the World's Professional Basketball Championship. You'll have to wait until Monday for the details of this thrilling series.

THE ORIGINAL Kingston Colonials, organized by Louis Brown and managed by Harry E. Schirick (circa 1921-27) was the greatest baseball team ever to represent the city. It was built around the best pitcher the city has ever produced—Bernard A. (Bud) Culliton.

The Receptions were the second greatest baseball dynasty in the city's history. They achieved their finest successes behind a sensational young southpaw out of Poughkeepsie—Billy Ostrom, who was straight out of Ring Lardner.

Between them, the Colonials and Receptions played five major league teams in exhibitions. Can you name the five? Here they are: Brooklyn Dodgers, Boston Braves, St. Louis Cardinals, Pittsburgh Pirates and Philadelphia Phillies. And throw in the famed Baltimore Orioles when they were dominating the International League year after year.

HOW MANY of these Hall of Famers played or appeared in Kingston? Joe Cronin, Pie Traynor, Frankie Frisch, Zach Wheat, Burleigh Grimes, Paul Waner? And, yes, Casey Stengel! Does anyone in the house recall the circumstances under which the immortal Grover Cleveland Alexander appeared in Kingston?

What baseball game—at Dietz Stadium—attributed the largest crowd in the city's history?

Is it true that Leo Durocher was fired and re-instated overnight for refusing to accompany the Brooklyn Dodgers to Kingston for a wartime exhibition game?

How many of the following great black baseball stars, if any, ever played in Kingston?—Satchel Paige, Roy Campanella, Buck Ewing, Josh Gibson, Willard Brown, Sam Jethroe, Ted Strong and Willie Wells.

Did Max Schmelling and Father Divine, two widely disparate personalities, ever hold forth at Greenkill Park?

Those are all rather intriguing sports questions. Probably, you know all the answers. If you don't, you'll have to wait until Monday to find out.

KINGSTON WAS ONCE proud of its Yellow Jackets, one of the finest independent football teams in the eastern part of the country. Good enough to get coverage in The New York Times. Good enough to be invited as one-day guests at Sing Sing Prison by famed Warden Lawes and football coach Johnny Law. Notre Dame All-America. How did the Jackets do against Sing Sing with its legendary Alabama Pitts and Moon Byrd? Well, sir, that's an interesting question, but you'll never know the answer unless you get yourself a copy of our 100th Anniversary.

You may quarrel with the section's contention that John Ferraro and Rose Schatzel are the No. 1 all-time man and woman bowlers in the city's tennis history. But you better believe it, if the man says that among the Hall of Fame bowlers who appeared in Kingston were Junie McMahon, Joe Wilman, Andy Varipapa, Tony Sparando, Jimmy Smith, Barney Spinella and Mort Lindsey, to mention a few.

Kingston never developed a world pocket billiard champion, but it had a player who once defeated world champion Frank Taberski. Name was Stanley Wojcik. The five greatest pocket billiard champions of all time chalked up in Kingston. If we told you their names, we'd be spoiling the fun. Join the names down now and see how you come out.

OUR SCHOLASTIC research was in the capable hands of Mori Laffin and Ira Finsfeld. Both did a superb job in setting forth the sports history of Kingston High and New Paltz State U., respectively. It makes for enjoyable reading and you'll like it.

We wish to take this opportunity to thank all those persons and organizations who assisted us in researching the various sports. With their generous assistance it would have been a monumental task and much of the flavor of the stories would have been lost.

I am proud to have been part of the magnificent sports saga of Kingston for four decades. Few sportswriters in a city the size of Kingston ever got the opportunity to watch and write about the marvelous sports figures and teams it was our privilege to watch. Our cup runneth over.

We in the editorial department of The Daily Freeman are proud of the 100th Anniversary Edition you will read Monday. Not just the sports section, but all of it. As a journalistic adventure, it will delight you.

Dick Bush

Dick Bush Stars At Keene State

KEENE, N.H. — Former Kingston High School and Ulster Community College soccer star Dick Bush has made his mark in the New England NAIA Conference.

Defensive "sweeper" back for Keene State College in New Hampshire, Dick has helped lead his team to eight victories without a defeat this season.

"Dick is one of the steadiest college performers that I have seen at that position this season," comments head coach Ron Butcher. A strong player, Bush is noted for his excellent tackling and sure head balls that have put an end to many an offensive threat. His defensive unit has allowed but seven goals in their eight matches.

Bush is no slouch on offense either. So far he has scored one goal and contributed two assists in the Owls' efforts.

Off to a great start, the Keene State booters expect Bush to lead them to an even greater season.

Dick, a psychology major, is the son of Mrs. William Bush, 38 Shufeldt St., Kingston.

Seals Are Scoring But Not Winning

By United Press International

The California Golden Seals could break a few league scoring records this season—and not win a game.

They dropped their wildest one yet in the lone NHL contest Friday when Vancouver bounced back from a four goal deficit to pull out a 9-6 decision and spoil the debut of the new Seals mentor Vic Stasiuk.

Coach Fred Glover was fired and former Philadelphia coach Stasiuk hired a few hours before the game.

Another disappointing Oakland crowd of 4,063 watched flashy Seals' rookie Bobby Steeham hit a hat trick in vain as Orland Kurtenbach and Andre Boudrais each scored twice for Vancouver. Dennis Kearns, Bobby Schmautz, John Schellal Pat Quinn and Murray Hall also registered for the winners, now 2-2.

The Seals are two losses and two ties and all their games have been high-scoring games. California outshot Vancouver 34-21 and the Seals have taken more shots than the opposition in every game so far this season. Rookie goaltender Gary Curt of the Seals thus let almost half of the shots taken at him get by.

A hefty schedule tonight finds Buffalo at Montreal, New York at Toronto, Detroit at St. Louis, Pittsburgh at Vancouver, Chicago at Minnesota and Philadelphia at Los Angeles.

California hosts Pittsburgh Sunday in its next contest.

Raiders Triumph... Coleman Tops OCS

KINGSTON Red Hook High School swept its eighth straight cross country win of the season Friday by downing Ellenville, 22-39. The Raiders thus held on to first place in the Ulster County Athletic League, two points ahead of Marlboro and Coleman.

The Statesmen moved their record to 6-2 by whipping ailing Onteora, 20-41; Marlboro topped Highland, 16-46; New Paltz tripped Walkill, 18-41; and Rondout edged Liberty, 21-36.

Red Hook's Phil Hand again crossed the wire first for his team to take top honors against Ellenville. Ira Hill of the Elites was second.

The Raiders grabbed the third and fifth through 11th positions to run away with the meet.

Tim Schussler, the hard-nosed runner from Onteora, won individual praise for his first place finish against Coleman, but the Kingston team dominated the important middle positions and came away with a victory.

Paul Schiller was second, Don Kelley third, followed by Kevin Post, Don Tegeler and Tony Maneen, all of Coleman.

Onteora was running without its top man, John Stay, who is through for the season with a hand damaged in a lawnmower accident.

"The course record might have been broken if John Stay had been able to run. I was very proud of Schiller's time. Paul is only a junior and works hard trying to improve with each race and he has cut his time every time out. If he can

New Players Join Kickers

KINGSTON Several new faces will be in the lineup when the Kingston Kickers meet the Austrian Soccer Club in a Premier Division position match this evening at 6 p.m. in New York City.

Manager Henry Ingber, in making the announcement of his probable starting lineups, said that Ron Valle, former Ulster County Community College player, now soccer coach at Coleman High School, Arnold Richards, a New Paltz State prospect, and Danny Greaves, former State U. star, will be in Kingston uniforms.

Linell Marshall Heads Hub Win

KINGSTON Linell Marshall scored 19 points and grabbed 12 rebounds to lead Hub Delicatessen to a 67-63 win over DeMico Motors in the Fall City Basketball League at Municipal Auditorium.

In another game, the Raiders crushed H&M TV, 82-46. The Hub-DeMico game pitted two teams comprised mainly of Ulster County Community College players. Hub led throughout the contest and had a 12 point bulge in the third quarter before DeMico started a rally which fell short.

OCS Trims Ellenville

Onteora's varsity field hockey team posted a 3-0 shut out over Ellenville High School here Tuesday.

Holly Heppner led the OCS girls with a pair of goals, and Robin MacFadden tallied a solo score in the league match. Nancy DiNapoli and Beth Sloane each had an assist.

On the defensive side, goalie Louise Dunn turned in six saves for the winners.

Next league game for the Squaws is scheduled for Oct. 19 against New Paltz.

Cards Try to Stop What They Started

By United Press International

The St. Louis Cardinals may be the long and the short of the Washington Redskins' winning string this season.

Washington started a four-game victory streak by beating the Cardinals in its National Football League opener and tries to make it five in a row Sunday against the same St. Louis club.

The 'Skins are four-point favorites and own a reputation of making the opposition yank its starting quarterback in all four games this season. St. Louis probably will start Jim Hart and have Pete Beathard in the bullpen.

Bill Kilmer has done remarkably well for Washington. He failed to build much of a reputation with San Francisco, fared better with New Orleans and seems to have reached his peak with the Redskins. Kilmer has been intercepted only once

Another You Read Here First

Jack Anderson reported on September 23, 1970, that Sen. Warren Magnuson was investigating the Mafia "as the culprit behind some of the business practices that plague the housewife." At that time, Magnuson's crack investigator, Don Gray, was holed up in the Library of Congress organizing the probe, Anderson reported. On October 5, Magnuson began his hearings, which showed, as Anderson predicted, how the Mafia strong-armed supermarkets into carrying inferior detergents produced by the Mafia's favored businessmen. The star of the probe was investigator Don Gray.

McGovern and Aide Bump Two GIs

the presidency as the servicemen's friend, unwittingly bumped two weary GIs from an Eastern Airlines flight the other night in view of its 84 passengers.

When the horrified McGovern learned the GIs had been kicked off the plane to make room for him, he refused to go aboard unless they were brought back. But an airline attendant pleaded it was too late. The pair had already been hustled aboard a taxi to catch a later flight at a nearby airport.

The comedy of errors began when McGovern flew into New York City's LaGuardia Airport in a private, twin-engine Beechcraft. His pilot radioed the airport that he was trying to catch the last Eastern shuttle flight to Washington at 10 p.m. Since there's always a chance McGovern may become President some day, Eastern obligingly promised to hold the plane for him.

But somehow the airport authorities botched up the clearance, and the Beechcraft wasn't allowed to approach the shuttle area. McGovern, not wishing to antagonize a plane full of voters, vainly urged that the big Eastern Electra go ahead without him.

McGovern's Misgivings

At last, McGovern's airport plane, led by a yellow airport truck with flashing lights, pulled up near the Electra. When McGovern stepped out, a pleasant Eastern attendant informed him: "We had to bump some GIs to get you on, Senator."

The two soldiers had held stand-by tickets, which allow them to fly at a 50 per cent military discount on a space-available basis.

Aghast, McGovern said: "I'm not getting on that plane unless those GIs are on it."

The attendant, who had expected gratitude, was astounded. "But Senator," he stammered, "I've already sent them to Kennedy (International Airport) to get an American Airlines flight."

Eastern had paid for the taxi and had reserved full-fare seats for them, making up the 50 per cent difference in fare.

Resignedly, McGovern and his executive assistant, Gordon Well, climbed aboard and settled in the two empty seats without a word to the furious passengers who had been kept waiting for 34 minutes.

One outraged passenger called us, recited the story and spluttered: "It's enough to make me vote for Nixon!"

An aide told us the rueful McGovern is writing personal letters to each of the 84 shuttle passengers. He also hopes someone will put him in touch with the two bumped GIs so he can apologize to them.

FOOTNOTE: At a luncheon in New York City's Americana Hotel, several balloons with "McGovern 72" printed on them floated to the ceiling. Later, Mayor John Lindsay's backers arrived for a meeting in the same room. When they spotted the McGovern balloons, they refused to allow anyone in the room until hotel employees had punctured every balloon with long poles.

Senate Shenanigans

Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., has taken the Senate floor to accuse us of malicious falsehood for reporting one of his aides had slipped restricted Senate data to the patent lobby.

McClellan insisted he granted permission to chief counsel Tom Brennan of the Senate Patents Subcommittee to leak a staff version of a bill to the very lobbyists who stand to make millions from it.

Ordinarily, McClellan's confession would be believable. The grimly owlish Senator from Arkansas has played footsie with just about every special interest from banks and oil to insurance and railroads. It wouldn't have surprised us to learn that he was also willing to slip inside information to the patent lobby.

But in this case, McClellan, in defending his aide, has told a shameful whopper to his fellow Senators. Tom Brennan himself, not once but twice, told us he didn't have permission from McClellan to hand out the staff documents.

The truth is that Brennan passed the documents under the table to the patent profiteers several weeks before the committee marked up the bill. This gave them time to bring pressure on the Senators to make any desired changes. The leaked documents, incidentally, were handled with great secrecy by the patent lobbyists.

McClellan's two-page diatribe in the Congressional Record is a vitriolic mix of huggermuggery and horsefeathers.

FOOTNOTE: A few years ago, McClellan used the Senate Patents Subcommittee to try to smother a bill intended to prevent more Thalidomide disasters. Use of the drug by expectant mothers had caused deformed babies. McClellan has also tried to give away patents developed with public money to the giant corporations.

Growing with America,

David Lawrence Says

The Nixon Journeys

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's decision to visit Moscow is receiving wide approval not only in the Soviet Union but in the countries of Europe generally. The official news agency in Russia optimistically says that the Soviets will approach the talks on the principle that there are no political or other problems which cannot be solved around a table if there is a will to agree.

The London "Times," which has long been one of the notable newspapers of Great Britain and is consistently well informed on the attitude of the British Government, has this to say in an editorial: "All credit must go to Mr. Nixon for his remarkable double. No American President has journeyed to Moscow or Peking; and to be able to arrange visits to both of them within the space of a few months is quite remarkable."

"In Britain it may seem an unfortunate coincidence that the announcement comes at a time when relations between Russia and Britain are at their coolest for a long time and when the Russians have cancelled a visit to Moscow by the Foreign Secretary. But there is another side to the picture. Mr. Nixon's claim to the Presidency was based at least in part on his reputation as the man who stood up to Khrushchev on his home ground. Russians base state relations on the facts of common interest. One aim of the British Government in expelling Russian officials was to remove unnecessary irritants so that a more genuine discussion of common interests might be possible."

If face-to-face talks between Mr. Nixon and the Russian leaders result in practical progress on major problems nobody should be more delighted than the British Government. The main topic for summit discussion is likely to be arms limitation. Mr. Nixon spoke optimistically yesterday of the prospects for a SALT agreement, but even if the first phase of SALT is successfully concluded before next May there will be much in the same field for discussion.

There are, of course, many matters in which the British are not directly involved but about which they have expressed concern — mainly the Middle East situation. They are hopeful also that the efforts toward strategic arms limitation will be successful, as this is a matter of great importance to all nations.

The feelings of Great Britain are shared throughout Europe. Mr. Nixon's readiness to take hold of the problems himself and deal with them in personal conference means with general approval because it indicates that he is determined to get results. The President thinks that the negotiations on strategic arms limitation have been protected, and that this is the time to go to the top men in the Soviet government and attempt to work out face to face the principles of a solution that could be put into effect at once. Mr. Nixon believes that an agreement would have a profound effect on Europe and Asia. His visit to Mainland China would have in it also a background of negotiation for a better relationship with the Red Chinese on which increased trade and commerce could be built.

Altogether, the President is hopeful that the year 1972 will be one that will yield benefits to the United States and to the world because personal agreements with the heads of the Soviet Union and Red China have long been needed and can do much to insure an era of peace.

There are rumors, of course, that Mr. Nixon's plan to go to Moscow has some relationship to his proposed visit to Peking. But he stands by this statement he made earlier this week: "The two are independent trips. We are going to Peking for the purpose of discussing matters of bilateral concern there, and I will be going to the Soviet Union for the purpose of discussing matters that involve the United States and the Soviet Union. Neither trip is being taken for the purpose of exploiting what differences may exist between the two nations. Neither is being taken at the expense of any other nation."

President Nixon is insistent that he has no hidden purpose and that his objective is to "normalize" the relations between the United States and the major powers in Europe and Asia. His hope is that a mutually trustful association with Russia will prevent a war in the Middle East as a new feeling of friendship between Mainland China and the United States brings peace in Asia — two objectives that America has sought at a tremendous cost.

Timely Quotes

The middle-class American may be a dentist, a doctor, a truck driver or insurance salesman. He may be a white Anglo-Saxon Protestant, a black, a Ukrainian, and Irishman or a Pole, Democrat or Republican. He believes in law and order; hard work, self-reliance and paying his own way. He does all the right things but the right things don't seem to be paying off — and he is frustrated.

'Saturday Night Specials'

No individual segment of Americans has found itself a more frequent target of gun-wielding criminals than policemen. The latest figures issued by the Federal Bureau of Investigation reveal that in the first eight months of this year, 80 police officers were murdered. The total was 67 in the same period in 1970.

It was ironic that the grisly statistics — which showed that both violent and "non-violent" crime are up sharply so far this year — were released at the time the International Association of Police Chiefs was assembled in California. Now of all people who should be in the forefront of the fight to bring handguns under some semblance of control, the police chiefs, you'd think, would lead all the rest. Not so.

Whatever their reasoning, the chiefs — and certainly no one for even a moment will harbor the thought they are unconcerned about the safety of their men — are badly split on the merits of mandatory registration of handguns as a step toward ending the chronic violence and murder that are a blemish on the national morality.

No small part of the increase in crime is due to the easy availability of handguns, particularly the so-called "Saturday Night Specials" that can be had for $10 or $20. Last year, 52 per cent of the handguns used in murders were these "specials." Their easy availability is traceable to conscienceless specimens of humanity who place profit above anything, including lives. The Gun Control Act of 1968 sought to rid the nation of this menace by banning importation of these cheapies from foreign countries. But some money-mad manufacturers and dealers got around the law by having the gun frames made in this country and importing the parts. This sneaky device, you see, kept these money grabbers out of the toils of the law.

Three firms which assemble these small handguns declined to appear before the Senate judiciary subcommittee on juvenile delinquency, the body that held hearings on the handgun problem. The group's chairman, Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana, wants the gun act amended so that federally licensed dealers could transfer no handgun to anyone except law enforcement personnel. The National Rifle Association, of course, is fighting any mandatory registration of owners; in the same camp is the assistant secretary of the treasury, Eugene T. Rossides, who sees the import ban as running head-on against the General Agreement on Trade and Tariffs. Supporting the bill was a woman named Mrs. Lillian K. Potter, who conceded that handgun restrictions "are not the whole solution to indiscriminate murder . . . but restriction of the manufacture and sale of this weapon of death is a desperately needed part of the whole solution." She is very concerned with the problem. Her husband was murdered last year by a man wielding a handgun.

Senator Bayh's group has its work cut out for it. It is battling the lobbyists of groups who see dire things happening once the gun traffic is brought under control — and these lobbies have muscle that make enough lawmakers tremble and then vote accordingly.

The New Tax Cuts

President Nixon's new economy program won massive support from the House of Representatives on the eve of his announcement of Phase Two of his program. The House approved $15.5 billion in tax cuts for individuals and corporations over the next three years. The bill now goes to the Senate, where Finance Committee Chairman Russell B. Long promised to expedite it.

The bill would reduce taxes on individual incomes by increasing the personal exemption from $650 to $675 this year and $750 in 1972 and by boosting the standard deduction from 14 to 15 per cent next year. It also eliminates income taxes for some 2 million poor people and cuts taxes for another 23 million low-income taxpayers by establishing a non-taxable income of at least $4,300 for a family of four and $2,800 for a couple.

Individuals will also benefit by the repeal of the 7 per cent excise tax on new cars, which reduces the price of a new car by $200. They will benefit from the re-establishment of the 7 per cent investment tax credit for business, designed to encourage new machinery and equipment and create new jobs, as well as on the accelerated depreciation of business plant and machinery.

The Senate is disposed to listen more to organized labor, which called the bill a bonanza for big business, but business in this country is people; and it is the people as taxpayers who benefit from this bill more than business, big or little.

BERRY'S WORLD

The Myth of the Red Revolt

The Soviet October Revolution celebration supercharges the impression that no matter how bad the Communists may be they did "free the Russians from the tsar." Hokus, hokey, hokum. Here, again, the Big Lie. The truth should be dutifully reviewed.

Systematically misleading the world's millions and entire generations in the United States, the Soviet Union ignores the true revolution that actually ended the tsarist rule. Moreover, the true day was February 27, 1917 (through March 12), and on that the U.S.S.R. is totally silent.

On March 22, 1917, the United States recognized a new Russian government; the first nation in the world to recognize great Russia's democracy. To emphasize America's satisfaction and confidence President Woodrow Wilson appeared before Congress. I find that this is what he said: "The great, generous Russian people have been added in all their majesty and might to the forces fighting for freedom in the world, for justice and for peace. Here is a fit partner for a League of Honor."

President Wilson immediately dispatched distinguished Elihu Root to Petrograd as chief of an American mission. France, the cradle of republicanism in Europe, responded as quickly and as handsomely. Britain likewise took quick official action.

"This is now Europe's springtime. Russia is free," extolled The Times of London.

The Bolsheviks under Vladimir Ilyich Ulyanov, alias Nikolai Lenin, overthrew the established free government that succeeded Tsar Nicholas II in a blood bath eight months later.

In simple truth, step by step, the Duma, Russia's Parliament, duly elected by the Russian people by secret ballot, called on the tsar to leave his throne. Russia was to be (and became) a republic under a constitution modeled on that of the United States.

The Duma delegation, carrying the edict which guaranteed the personal safety of the tsar and the royal family, reached him aboard the royal train at the German battlefront. The tsar signed the abdication papers.

Respected Aleksandr Fedorovich Kerensky, 36, who died only last year in the United States at the age of 89, sat in the Ministry of Justice. He was elected Premier of the provisional government and Commander-in-Chief of the army. But Russia still faced two malignant enemies: the Germans from the outside and the Communists (Bolsheviks) waiting to attack Russia from within. They were in league with each other.

Lenin was not even in Russia when the tsar abdicated. Moreover, he had not been in Russia for 10 years. Sitting in a small Zurich cafe, he merely learned of this in a Swiss newspaper. Lenin was on the British blacklist as an enemy of the Allied war effort, a fifth columnist in the pay of the Germans, a saboteur and a grafter, a thoroughly discredited man, wily, bad and dangerous to know.

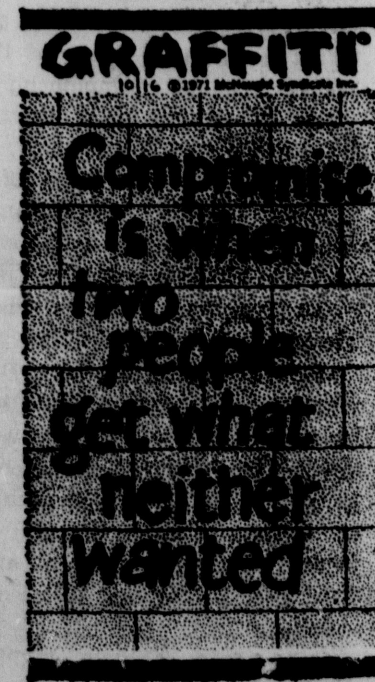

German Gen. Eric von Ludendorff contacted Lenin in Bern, Switzerland. The Germans — Lenin's employer — supplied him with the famous sealed railway coach across Germany to the Russian border.

The first thing Lenin did was to stage a Communist demonstration against the American Embassy in Petrograd.

Thwarted, Lenin fled into hiding, to emerge again in October on orders from Berlin to strike once more. By November 8, 1917, the Communist band controlled Petrograd.

Lenin established himself as dictator. He made Lev Bronstein, alias Leon Trotsky, who had arrived from Brooklyn, N.Y., and whom the Communists later (1929) murdered in Mexico City, second in command.

Lenin promptly sent Trotsky to the welcoming Germans at Brest-Litovsk. There the Communist conspirators, continuing in the pay of the Germans, signed a separate peace at the war's blackest hour. Their treachery had gone full cycle. The cost to our country was permanent.

TEEN SCENE: The Crystal Ball and Chain of Future

By LEI

Parents talking together are frequently heard to remark, "What will the world come to? What kind of world will it be when these young people grow up?" Some adults envision a world of 1990 being run by bell-bottomed radicals along the lines of a college confrontation.

Hollywood, pulp magazines and paperback books have fed this attitude with several stories and films about worlds run by youth cults, with the older generation herded off into slave labor camps and gas chambers. In fact, probably not a teenager exists who hasn't had fantasies about a world run entirely by the young with no adults around making wars, being condescending, giving out traffic tickets and trying to act like teenagers.

Unfortunately that whole fantasy gets hung up on a very sharp hook—we all get older. Every adult now used to be a teenager, and every teenager will someday be an adult — if he survives. Nobody is exempt — Bob Dylan, a couple of the Beatles, and the fellow who coined the expression "never trust anyone over thirty" are all over thirty, now. Perhaps parents would be comforted to know what happens to young non-conformists as they grow older. They tend to become adult semi-conformists. The world and they reach a compromise, in effect.

Like that fellow who said not to trust anyone over thirty. Well he has a toddler son now, and a friend of his quipped that he's beginning to not trust anyone under five. Those young radicals who defend their right to Anglo-Saxonize their speech out at Berkeley College some years ago have quieted down a lot in less than a decade. They haven't sold out to the system, and the system hasn't sold out to them, but they are experimenting with different methods of accomplishing their goals, and some of those goals have changed. "Free speech" after all, is becoming a moot point when the "shocking words" of the mid-sixties are used lavishly on the movie screens and in the titles of plays and magazines. The fellows who were using that as a lever to change the system are still trying—some embittered because progress is so slow, and some encouraged because there is any progress at all.

Most of them are married, or at least pairing off, and most of them have children. A lot of them are working. Strangely, some of them disapprove of what the teenagers are doing today. Some of them are worried about how their own kids are growing up. Many say things like, "I'd like to become active again in this or that movement, but with the job and two toddlers to drag along I just don't have as much time as I did in college . . ." These fellows mean it, but it still comes out the old Suburbia Copout.

It is highly unlikely that the world of a decade from now will see legalized grass, outlawed war, pollution-free streams, and an 18-year-old president. The question is far larger than that of youth and age.

Teens often feel that adult justice, for instance, doesn't understand the young viewpoint on matters ranging from speeding tickets through arrests for loitering and narcotics violations. Yet an experimental program in one town allowing teens to suggest penalties for such violations in specific cases found that the teens often suggested penalties more severe than those on the books! There is less communication between some groups of young people than there is between other young people and adults. One writer noted that the former "student radicals," by the way, tended to be fairly strict parents!

There are 13-year-olds who think that older teens are "over the hill." And there are college-age radicals who think that the teens today are terribly uncool—"Don't call me a 'hippy,' man, or they'll think I'm some shaggy pothead living under a park bench or something. I mean, they're all right, but by the time I was sixteen, I'd had a book published. These kids today, they aren't producing, you dig, they're just freaking around and . . ." He has long hair and a beard, but the fellow who ten years ago was worrying his parents comes on sounding a lot like a parent himself! To him, the younger generation are no longer "we"—they have become "they," and thus, a gulf has opened that is hard to bridge.

Times catch up with the revolutionaries and they find that they are fighting a war that is already won. They learn that "compromise" is not always the same as selling out. Sometimes memories of youthful fervor leave them a little embarrassed—or a little depressed that it no longer seems possible or necessary. The former teens realize the question was never one of age or rage. It was a matter of intensity of beliefs, communication, and energy.

Prim Image Changing

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Sallie does not seem apprehensive about being so young for her position.

"I think it might almost be better to have a young house-mother," she said. "I'll be living the same way the girls do, like a student, even be a student."

College customs are changing, and Syracuse University's sorority houses—once considered bastions of tradition—are keeping up with the times.

Many of the sororities found themselves "orphaned" at the end of last semester, and the chore of helping alumnae find replacements fell to Carolyn Jones, Panhellenic advisor and assistant to the dean of student services and activities.

She and the graduates came up with a group that includes the young in years and the young at heart.

"We were looking for someone who was going to be able to manage a house—but who would also be able to relate to students," Miss Jones explained.

A look at this year's newcomers shows that the house-mother often is a student herself.

Miss Sallie Smith, a sorority sister a few years ago at Penn State University, is in charge of the Iota Alpha Pi house at S.U. She worked on the fashion staff of a magazine and managed a U.S. Army service club in Germany.

group on Long Island, so working with young adults is nothing new.

"The age of the girls really didn't scare us," Mrs. Nowinski said.

The Delta Gammas, who piloted the idea of having a house couple last year, have continued in their belief that it's good to have a man around the house.

This year the couple is Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mingoelli, both doctoral candidates.

The two share the work equally.

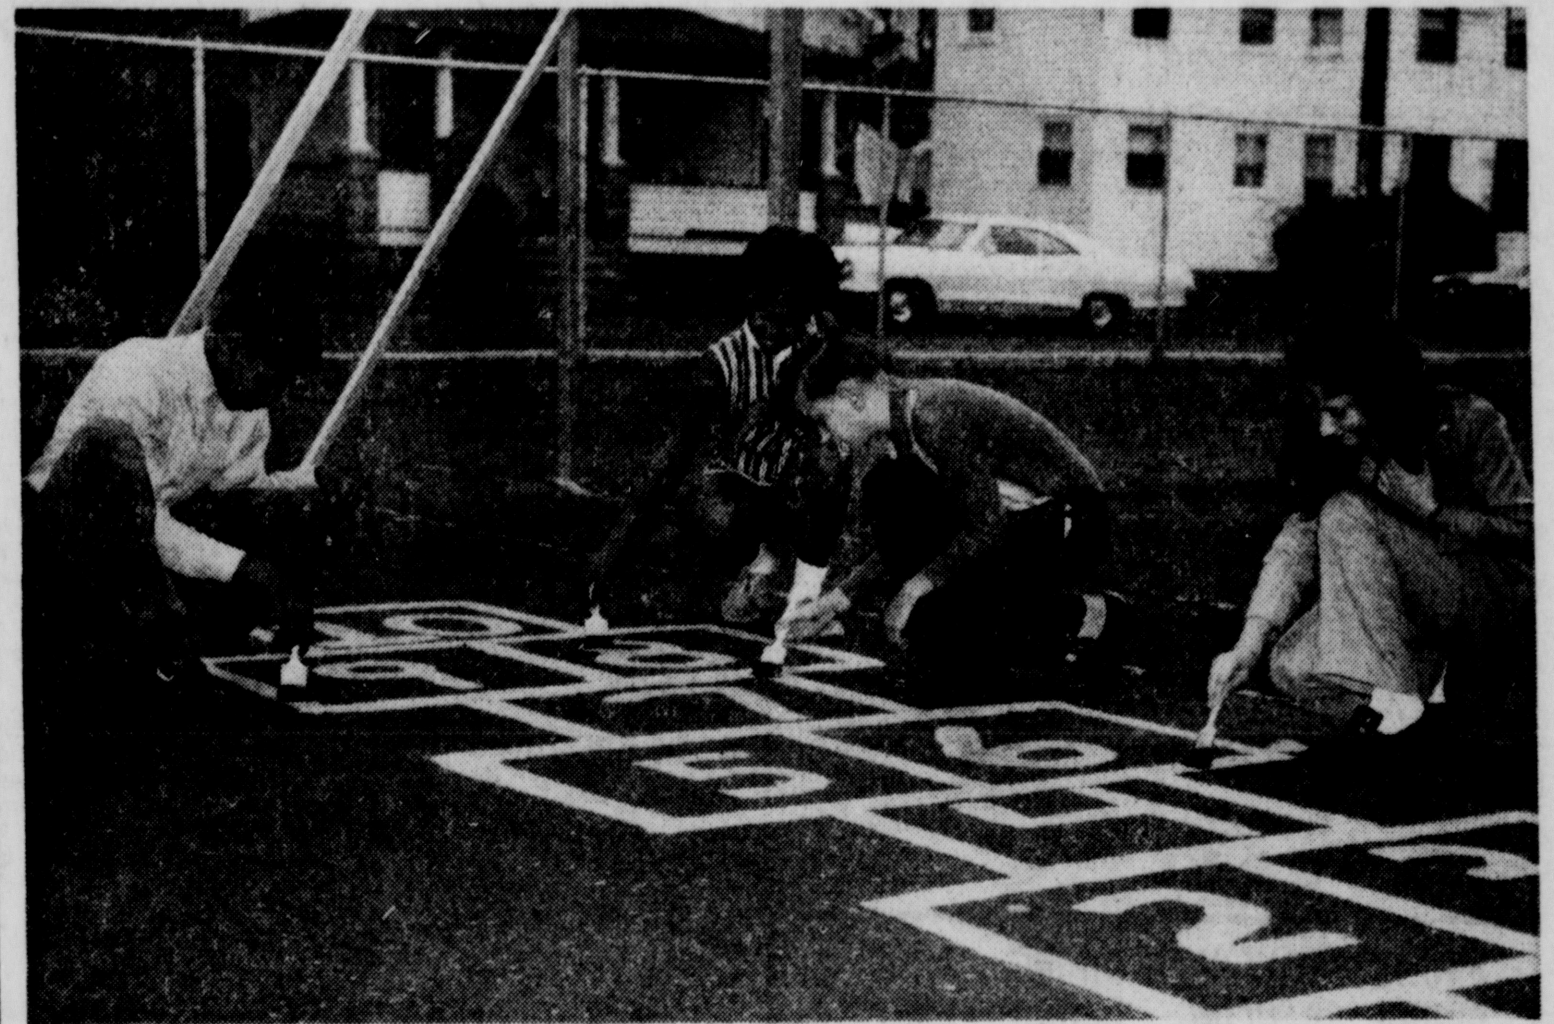

"My husband, in fact, had to go to the first meeting of the housemothers because I was unable to attend," Jennie Mingoelli said.

Mrs. Ann Steward, among the older but still lively group of housemothers, graduated from the University of Colorado in 1970—and walked in the commencement procession next to her son. She is now beginning work on her master's degree in speech pathology.

The title "Housemother" may seem a little strained for a graduate student in her mid-20s, but Miss Jones, the alumnae and the sorority girls are optimistic and enthusiastic about the arrangements.

Now some of the girls' dates may be more than happy to be unable to attend, "mother."

College Night Program Set

STONE RIDGE Sixty-five colleges and universities will be represented at the 13th annual Ulster County College Night scheduled Wednesday at the Stone Ridge campus of Ulster County Community College.

Students will be participating from Coleman, Ellenville, Highland, Kingston, Marlboro, New Paltz, Ontario, Rondout, Saugerties and Walkill High Schools and Ulster Academy.

College Night will provide an opportunity for area high school seniors, juniors and sophomores and their parents to hear representatives from varied colleges to aid them in planning their choice of major and college.

The 65 colleges which will be represented include four SUNY centers, eight SU colleges, three agricultural and technical colleges and five community colleges.

Brownwyn, along with all candidates, will answer a questionnaire during the weeks of Oct. 14-Nov. 14, outside of school hours under the supervision of the sponsoring DAR chapter. The sponsoring chapter in her case is the Wiltwyck Chapter in Kingston.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ludlow of Accord, Brownwyn was a Girls State Representative this past summer. She has been very active in class, school and community activities.

SAUGERTIES The Sawyer, Saugerties High School yearbook, captured a first place rating in the 37th annual contest and critique for yearbooks conducted by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

Saugerties shared first place honors with Notre Dame High School of Elmira in the competition to 901 pupils.

In the college and university competition Marist College of Poughkeepsie won one of the nine first place awards.

Other Mid-Hudson area schools getting first place ratings include Mt. St. Mary Academy, Newburgh, for schools with 300 or fewer pupils and Valley Central, Montgomery, for 901 to 1,501 pupil category.

In the competition, more than 1,000 entries from 49 states received awards. In the judging for central schools, one of the 21 categories of competition, upstate schools topped seven of the eight awards.

Youth in the News—Music and Honors

Fathers are being feted this weekend at Cazenovia College and a Kingston girl is one of the key planners for the event.

Youth in the News learned this week that Merry W. Kaune, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Kaune of Kingston is planning the Saturday afternoon activities for the fun weekend. She is president of the Women's Recreation Association at the upstate college where she is a sophomore. Events are planned through Sunday.

Preparing to open the concert season with the famed Ithaca College Symphonic Band is Diane Mataraza of Milton. A sophomore music major, she will play trombone with the band for on and off campus performances throughout the school year. First concert will be presented Oct. 20 at the college. She is a 1970 graduate of Marlboro Central School.

Music is going to dominate the weekend of Nov. 19 and 20 for eleven Rhinebeck Central School students. They were selected this week to participate in the Zone 10 Area All-State Festival to be held at Red Hook. Highlight of the weekend will be a concert 8 p.m. Nov. 20.

MERRY W. KAUNE

Selected for the orchestra are Yung Chin, violin and Donna Rhoads, cello. Those who will join the 175-voice choir are Debbie Callaghan, William Cotling, Patricia Curthoys, Richard Foss, Nancy Haskins, David Howells, Karen Rastetter, Keith Whittaker and Gary Wilkert. In local high school honors, more Letters of Commendation from the 1971 National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test were announced this week.

Those named as commended students at New Paltz High School are Kenneth Gooderham, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Gooderham of 1 Laurel Lane;

Thomas Impola, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Impola of 20 DuBois Road; Wayne King, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald King of 105 Mountain Rest Road; Jo Ellen Locken, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Locken of 9 Cedar Ridge Road; Robin Meng, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Heinz Meng of 10 Joslyn Road; and Martha St. Onge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry St. Onge of 3 Mountain View Place. All are of New Paltz.

Commended students at John A. Coleman High School, Kingston are Virginia Cicale, Eileen Clarkin, James Cranston, Michael Gromek, Charlene Hamiwka and Jamie Roche.

Brownwyn Ludlow, a senior at Rondout Valley Central High School, is that school's candidate for the 1972 DAR Good Citizens Award. Open to senior girls in public and private high schools, this contest is sponsored annually by the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution. Each girl nominated receive a pin and a Certificate of Award. Selection of a district winner is made in each of ten districts in New York State, and from these ten the New York State Good Citizen is chosen. State winners receive pins and $100 Series E Bonds. The other district winners receive a $50 bond. Qualifications on which the girls are judged are Dependability, Service, Leadership, and Patriotism. From the state winners is chosen the National Good Citizen Award winner, who receives a $1,000 scholarship to the college of her choice and a five-inch engraved sterling silver bowl.

Brownwyn, along with all candidates, will answer a questionnaire during the weeks of Oct. 14-Nov. 14, outside of school hours under the supervision of the sponsoring DAR chapter. The sponsoring chapter in her case is the Wiltwyck Chapter in Kingston.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ludlow of Accord, Brownwyn was a Girls State Representative this past summer. She has been very active in class, school and community activities.

Katims called the pilot program "immensely successful."

"From an academic standpoint," he noted, "the insights reached by all the participants appear to be as numerous and as substantial as those in any traditional course."

Katims recommended that UCCS continue to develop new modes of learning based on experiential and action-oriented approach.

"We recommend in particular that the Summer Poverty Program be continued during the academic year on an appropriately modified basis," he said.

"We recommend that the Division of Social Science continue to explore the possibility of further collaboration with the Ulster County Community Action Committee and other groups in developing real life learning experiences centered around the real life problems of Ulster County."

The participating students also voiced interest in seeing such programs continue.

Husband's Hairnet Cools Her Off

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: In all the years I've been married, I've tried to go to bed looking sexy. No curlers or face cream.

Now that men have gone in for long hair my husband has never looked better. But, Abby, going to bed with a man who is wearing a hairnet turns me off. My husband isn't ashamed of it, either. He tells our friends how he "puts his hair up" and wears a hairnet to bed. My husband is very masculine, and I do love him, but until he gets rid of his hairnet our love life is at a standstill.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y.
DEAR SPRINGS: A man who continues a practice which he knows turns his wife off is asking for what he is getting. Nothing! But there are no winners in that game, so you two had better come to terms. And fast.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you for help because I am too ashamed to seek help elsewhere. I am not married, Abby, and I am pregnant. I do not wish to marry the fellow because I have no feelings left for him. I cannot tell my parents because I would rather die than let them know that I have failed them. I can arrange to leave home for several months and want to know if you could recommend a home for unwed mothers, OUT of Ireland. Thank you in advance.

Teeners' Help Is Cited

The Ulster County Chapter for Teachers of the Mentally Handicapped, Inc. met at the Emma Wygant School for their first fall meeting this week. Following a tour of the classrooms and a buffet dinner sponsored by the Parent's Club of that school, the teachers and members of both the ARC (Association for Retarded Children) and the Parent's Club heard two dedicated people who are doing positive things for the retarded child.

Miss Anne Burgess, executive director of Columbia County Association for Retarded Children and state advisor for YOUTH and Thomas Cranna, vice-president of YOUTH (youth organized and united to help) and president of LARC (love association for retarded children) spoke of the many accomplishments by interested teenagers through these organizations.

Miss Anne Burgess, a former high school science teacher, said she got her inspiration while boarding with a family who has a mongoloid child. Living in with this child, she could see where other children with similar difficulties would be helped by others. One day, when asked to be an advisor for starting a YOUTH group, she announced, over the speaker in her high school, this need to all interested teenagers. All who were interested were to meet with her after school that day. At least 40 teenagers responded. This response was so gratifying, that she resigned from teaching, to devote more time to this service.

In the months that followed, these teenagers formed the groups, Youth and Larc. By adding more and more volunteers, their fund raising drives, dinners, and variety shows have been of great success. Two programs in particular are being carried on weekly in Columbia County because teenagers do care. Every Sunday afternoon between two and four, teenagers meet with retarded children in a workshop to help them on a one to one basis, learning skills, gaining confidence, playing games, and most of all finding that they have friends who really want to be with them. Once a week on Tuesdays, they assist in a swimming program from five to eight at night.

As Cranna expressed it, when he addressed the group, "People think that teenagers need to shoot grass or drink to do their thing or get high. But after I have spent an afternoon with these kids, this is my high and I feel great for having helped someone. You know some of these teenagers will become the future teachers of the retarded and we are really learning how it is."

Youth helps the adults become more aware of these handicapped children and they find that they can also do something positive in this area. In Columbia County they have Service Clubs have taken groups on snowmobile outings, fishing trips, and boat trips. Youth in other counties as well, are doing things like assisting in the state institutions, giving help at mealtime, putting on variety shows, and raising money, and building good public relations, it was noted.

The speakers have offered to return to Kingston anytime to help organize a Youth group.

Marbletown Recycling Meeting

The Marbletown Recycling Group has scheduled a meeting for next Thursday night with representatives of the Town Board, Marbletown Environmental Commission and all church and civic groups in the township in an attempt to organize all factions involved in recycling activities and environmental cleanup campaigns, according to Mrs. Rosalind Sedacca, chairman.

Mrs. Sedacca said that two representatives from every organized group has been invited to attend the 7:30 p.m. meeting. Discussion will center on how to mobilize the efforts of all town groups to conduct a successful recycling campaign.

BOCES Sets Open House

NEW PALTZ
As part of the American Education Week celebration, Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services will sponsor open house activities at the six Vocational Education Centers.

Wednesday, Oct. 27, will be designated as Open House Day from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. for all interested parents and citizens to visit the centers.

This year's American Education Week theme is "Help Schools Bridge the Gap" between young people and adults. Between Americans of different color and point of view, between rich and poor, and between promise and performance.

Dr. Jack L. Roosa, district superintendent of schools and executive officer at Ulster County BOCES, issued the invitation for all citizens to visit the Vocational Education Centers and see what is being done with our high school students. He said, "Vocational Education is providing the students with occupational competence and interest. There are many technical jobs available today and more will be available in the future. Vocational Education will help reduce the number of jobless people in our society." Open House will be held at

ernestly speaking
With this "colyum," ERNESTLY SPEAKING rounds out a full year of existence... 52 weekly stints with nary a miss; the close calls don't count!
It's been fun; I hope the next 52 "colyums" will be as enjoyable. What has made it easier for me has been the number of "steadies" who come back for many different celebratory occasions that I can report on: I only wish everybody who has a special occasion when dining at Roberto's would let us know about it... I'd have so much more to write about.
If these weekly reports seem to carry a frequent repetition of such names as follow (and I ask forgiveness in advance for dozens of names I'm unhappily bound to overlook) it's simply because they're here so often, and so happily:
The Perrys, the Amatos, Benicases, Clarks, Clines, Corcorans, Currans, Delavans, Frasers, George and Martha, Griggs, Guidos, Hennesseys, Henrys, Matthews, Moroneys, Myers, Schwartzs, Serras, Shannons, Spinnewebers, Turks... whew!—and I'm not even a part way through!
As one of our good friends said to me: "Stop trying to justify your prices as against other places; the best justification you have is the number of steady patrons who come back for more." I know that makes sense, but I can't help getting my back up when I hear unfair comparisons being made.
As I said, I'm only unhappy that more patrons do not take advantage of their presence to let me know what occasions they're celebrating. Next time you're in, pick up a TEMPO sheet and fill it out. And while I'm extolling about finishing my own first year as a "colyumist," let me not forget to note the 100TH ANNIVERSARY edition of The Daily Freeman, which comes out Monday. I'll repeat what we say in that issue: "Having heard that the first hundred years are the hardest, we've decided to work on our second hundred, instead. But our congratulations to The Freeman for doing it the hard way!"
SCENE AT ROBERTO'S
It was a three-way parlay: Birthdays for Dom Perry and Dick Hawkins, and 8th Anniversary for the Dom Vanacores. Attending were Dick Hawkins, of Seaford, Long Island; Lillian and Dominick Perry, of Kingston; Agnes and Fred Vanacore and Rita and Dominick Vanacore, of Shokan... one of whom wrote: "Even though it's a weekly affair for the Perrys to come here, it was a first for the rest of us. Excellent!" Another couple on the "regular" list would be Starr and Harry Coale, of Kingston, who brought Mr. and Mrs. Fred F. Schneider, of Seaford and High Woods, to celebrate Kay Schneider's Birthday. The Coale Comment: "Superb, but one comes to expect that at Roberto's. (Editorial Note to Mr. C.) I don't blame you for getting annoyed at the waiter's error, but it just shows that running a restaurant is no different than running a government. There's always somebody who didn't transmit the message correctly; that's what we have diplomats like Papa Joe for!" From Hurley, Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Kafir brought along daughter Karen, to help them celebrate their 15th wedding anniversary. Many happy returns of the day! ***Mrs. Angela Ellsworth and Mrs. Doris Gentile, of Kingston, teamed up with "Grand Ace Du Monde" of Hurley, to celebrate the 84th Birthday of Mrs. Mary Mulhare. Wrote Doris: "Mrs. Mulhare enjoyed a very Happy Birthday, with delicious food, atmosphere at its best and wonderful service. Looking forward to her 85th at same place. Thank you, Poppy Joe and Ernie." ***As the Great Gleason says, How Sweet It Is... to be Sweet Sixteen. And to have your Sweet Sixteen Party at Roberto's and at did Michele Matthews, of Port Ewen. Among those pleasant were Janette Baggot, Beth Burkan and Bob Burkan, of Kingston; Barbara Doyle, "Grand Latte, Monica Maroney, Yvonne Maroney, Lisa Matthews and Sue Power, of Port Ewen; and Chris Schline, of Kingston. Said Michele: "Dinner Excellent. Service Fine; enjoyed everything, including the CAKE!" ***And to wrap off the week, there was the 25th Anniversary party given to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Prusak, by George and Martha, of the Park Diner. Says George (and he ought to know): "Mr. Prusak is one of the best... the biggest... in the Hudson Valley, and Roberto's is the best in food." Well, I'm glad that, culinarily speaking, Mr. Prusak has found this happy hunting ground.

MISH AND MASH
As long as I mentioned a few of these many "steadies" who make Roberto's Dining Room a favorite, I can't overlook the "gang" who have made our Cocktail Lounge the Saturday Night Spot in these parts. If you've ever attended our "Saturday Night Soiree and Shivaire", you must have appreciated the talented contributions of some of these great "regulars" (billion is in strictly alphabetical order... nobody is going to get me out of a limbo!)
"Papa Joe" and Tony "Red" Amato; Augie and daughter Sharon; Dan Callahan; Don Carr; Frank Bob Hennessey; Dora and Ed Shannon; Shirley; Jack Turk; V.I. and everybody attending our "Saturday Night Soiree and Shivaire" duo that helps put it all together: Mark Garrison at the Hammond and Tony Fitzpatrick on the drums. Incidentally, we are temporarily without the contributions of Sharon, who was in an automobile accident. Thankfully, it was not too serious, and we all hope to see her back in the fold real soon. We missed you Sharon.
This past Friday, Gary Giandonia, of Round Top, N.Y., returned for Dinner and to join in joining in the Friday Night "Sing Along" in the Cocktail Lounge. That guy has got a terrific voice; whaddya do Saturdays, Gary? Speaking of Saturdays, the latest session brought back Augie, Fran and Ed Shannon, and a great new addition to the roster, Frankie Rinn, of New York City, who returned Sunday night for a terrific encore of entertaining.
And tell ya whaddom gonna dooo! Seeing that all year long we help others celebrate their anniversaries, I'm going to have a special Birthday Cake for "Ernestly Speaking" and everybody attending our "Soiree and Shivaire" tonight (Oct. 16) is going to get a piece of it, with our thanks for all the help they've been in filling up this space! Come, join the party.

Buckley Calls For Arms Race Superiority

FISHKILL, N.Y. (AP) — U.S. Sen. James Buckley, R-N.Y., told 400 persons at a Mid-Hudson Area Conservative Party dinner here Friday that the U.S. must maintain its arms superiority because it has a responsibility not only for its own defense but "the responsibility for other interests in the west."

"We have been coasting, we've been sitting on our hands, we've basically stood still in every category of our defense," Buckley said.

He predicted that in the arms race, "the Russians will be in a position to surpass us in two, three or four years."

"They will be able to lob eight times as many warheads at us as we can return," the Conservative-Republican lawmaker said. "This is not just Pentagon scare talk."

Buckley said that by 1975 the Soviet Union may have the capability to destroy all land based forces in a first strike.

"We live in an era in which there are in fact aggressive nations," Buckley said. "If you have aggressive nations about, then weakness invites war."

Young to Speak In New Paltz

NEW PALTZ — Ron Young, youth secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, and organizer of the "Vietnam Daily Death Toll Project," will be speaking about the project to all interested people in this area, Monday, Oct. 18.

He will speak first at the State University at New Paltz in the C.S.B. Auditorium at 4 p.m., then at the New Paltz Student Christian Center, 62 Plattskill Avenue, at 6 p.m., for a potluck supper, and at Vassar College at 7:30 p.m.

This is preliminary to a weekend of training in non-violence, Oct. 29 through 31, place to be announced. This will be a period of intense activity, exploring the possibilities of non-violence in dealing with personal violence, racism, war and anything else, says Jack Riley. He says the exploration of non-violence will be done by the strange ways of role playing, strategy games, and action planning.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE OF HEARING UPON PRELIMINARY BUDGET

Notice is hereby given that the preliminary budget of the Town of Rosendale for the fiscal year beginning January 1st, 1972 has been completed and filed in the office of the Town Clerk at Main Street in the Village of Rosendale, N.Y., where it is available for inspection by any interested person at all reasonable hours.

Further notice is hereby given that the Town Board of the Town of Rosendale will meet and review said preliminary budget and hold a public hearing thereon at the Town Clerk's Office at 7 P.M. on the 3rd day of November 1971 and that at such hearing any person desiring to be heard in favor of or against any item or items therein contained, pursuant to Section 113 of the Town Law, the proposed salaries of the following officers are hereby specified as follows:

Your Horoscope

Sunday, October 17

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A wonderful day to straighten out present arrangements and to make new conditions under which you and your close ties can live in greater harmony. A fine day for whatever has to do with entertaining or gaining the goodwill of those to whom you are attached.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Join friends at the recreations that most appeal to all and come to a better understanding. Know what you are doing exactly and thus avoid trouble in the future. Slow that you have poised.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You are able to improve your environment now and make the future happier. Make sure to invite someone who is alone, to a party or other form of recreation. Take time to write letters.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Engage in the pleasure you like, thereby relieve tensions and make the new week more successful for you. A new site is fine where you and mate can have a delightful time.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Try to establish greater accord at home and then invite friend for dinner. Comforts can make life more pleasant. Do some reading tonight that will be educational.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A good day for more rapport with good friends and relatives so get an early start on such. Take care of any transportation affairs that you may have. Engage in your hobbies.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Consult with one who is an expert where finances are concerned. Plan repairs on property that give you a sense of real abundance. Don't let others fool you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are so magnetic and charming today that everyone wants to be around you, so make the most of this day's fine planetary aspects. Dress in fine style. Be wise.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan to attend those fine affairs in the future, or do the entertaining yourself so that there is an exchange of culture. Obtain the data you require. Relax in the evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) An ideal day to make future plans. You can now make the finest impression on good friends and bigwigs and advance more quickly. You can express yourself well now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A good day to contact socially those bigwigs who can help you to get ahead in your career. Engage in civic work that can be most interesting and helpful to others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Plan a little trip, and correspond with others instead of just sitting in that big, comfy chair you like so much. Make plans for new and interesting activities in the future.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have excellent insight today, so make good use of it in practical objectives. Make new contacts of worth. Evening can then be particularly romantic with the one you love.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people who has the charm to gain many favors from others and to put own ideas across successfully. Be sure to teach early to be helpful to others. The imagination in this nature is remarkable as well as the ability to do things artistically. Give religious training early.

Monday, October 18

general tendencies: You have a considerable energy and can wind up those joint ventures that need the assistance and approval of allies. A man wants to get rid of some tasks you can help him with. Get ready to put a new plan in operation tomorrow.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Work harmoniously with associates and you make life easier for yourself in the days ahead. Show your carry through with promise made. Talk over new ideas intelligently.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Higher-up is observing the work you are doing; make sure you are accurate and efficient so you can reap excellent benefits in the future. Use spare time for improving your health. Take it easy tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Concentrate on reaction during day, also plan future social activities. Don't forget to pay some important bill. Save money by getting rid of an item that is a veritable millstone around your neck.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take time to make the situation at home more harmonious and conditions around you more ideal. Please kin more. Plan financial affairs better for minimum loss and maximum profit.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Take an expert along when doing important shopping and you get fine results. Then delve into the hobby you enjoy, which is also a source of income, and have fun.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Show appreciation for people who have assisted you in the past and gain more favor with them. Add new bric-a-brac to home so it looks more beautiful. Stop worrying about something that is really a blessing in disguise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Personal aims started some time ago need a little more work to reach your goals. Being charming with others does the trick. Avoid one who is a double talker.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Loyalty shown higher-ups, along with your fine ability, helps you reach your goals in the business world easily now. Paying bills improves your credit considerably. Take it easy tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you contact good friends early you can get those personal aims on the road to success more easily and quickly. Make sure you accept desirable invitations that are extended. Dress nicely.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Postpone civic matters. Get busy at business affairs early and you accomplish much, provided you do not go off on some tangent. Plan tonight how best to handle public work. Do some reading, too.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You want to make changes that are to your advantage and it is a good day for this, so

CBS Sunday Movies a Coup

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—CBS-TV seems to have come up with a programming coup in its new, early Sunday night "family" movies.

These films have played havoc with competing shows on the other networks, and the only question is just how many top motion pictures CBS-TV will be able to offer in the early Sunday slot.

Sunday nights are regarded as the top family night for television, and the programming logic is that CBS-TV really doesn't need great films for this position so much as it needs appropriate ones—that is, those with wide family appeal.

The tipoff as to the popularity of CBS-TV's Sunday movies, and their early hour, came with the first one, "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner," which was a rerun yet made a tremendous ratings impression, walloping "Bonanza" and other competing shows.

Just last weekend the Sunday movie was the first part of "The Sand Pebbles," with Steve McQueen.

And now comes word that in the national ratings for the week ending Oct. 3, the Sunday movie "To Sir With Love" scored another whopping triumph in the statistics, placing third among all programs.

By no slight coincidence, "Bonanza" took another temporary plunge—finishing 28th.

There are some other ratings results worth noting. For example, the incredible success of the "Charlie Brown" cartoons was indicated again when another rerun in the occasional series came in seventh.

In 10th place, meanwhile, also showing muscle, was the new Rock Hudson-Susan Saint James series, "McMillan & Wife," a lighthearted mystery about a police commissioner and his spouse.

Over at ABC-TV, "The Partridge Family," a situation comedy with music about a traveling rock 'n' roll group, continues its steady rise in popularity. It ranked 14th.

CBS-TV's "Funny Face," a new series that was in the top 10 in the last ratings, and seems destined for a long run, somehow dropped to 18th. It stars Sandy Duncan as a college student who does video commercials.

Another new CBS-TV series, statistics ranked 22nd, which is the Dick Van Dyke Show, very good indeed for a show that had been going nowhere, last listings.

What these ratings show is that programs like "Funny Face" and Dick Van Dyke's series, while generally popular, are definitely not yet in the smash hit status, and that, in fact, no regular new series is—unless you count the Sunday movies, and they will vary in impact.

A nice surprise is that ABC-TV's "The Odd Couple," which threw out its laugh track this season and is using a live audience, has improved greatly in the ratings, and in the latest City.

ABC-TV's Monday night football continues strong, placing 27th. The new Jimmy Stewart series on NBC-TV may be starting to make a move—it came in 44th, which is no great shakes but better than where it was.

At the very bottom of the rankings, even below ABC-TV's evening news, is Shirley MacLaine's ABC-TV situation comedy, placing 71st. Only two positions higher is Anthony Quinn's new series on the same network, "The Man and the City."

City Beat

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Freeman City Hall Reporter

THE MAYORAL CAMPAIGN—This was the week that was as far as this year's mayoral campaign is concerned. One can now get a fairly accurate reading of the campaign strategies of both sides.

The incumbent, (Democrat) Frank Koenig, will run what he terms "a positive campaign." Urban renewal will be his big issue. Oddly enough, Bob Murphy, his Republican-Conservative opponent, is also running on an urban renewal platform, of course taking the opposite tact.

Koenig will point to his accomplishments through a "team effort" with his running mate, Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo. Koenig, we think, has picked a good issue. Urban renewal was one of those things that had to come around. It has come around. Koenig has merely to read the map in Broadway East: a new city hall, a new fire station, the $4 million UDC project, new roads.

The mayor apparently will not respond to attacks from Murphy. The former police chief opened up on Wednesday with a blast against the Ulster Arterial. Koenig and just everybody else in town knows that without the arterial the city will have to pay upwards of $3 million to the federal government on its urban renewal debt.

MURPHY'S CAMPAIGN will be quite a bit less "public" than Jim Tyrrell's, his predecessor, in 1969. Murphy will be content to work on small pockets of discontent. The Ulster Arterial issue is an example. Maybe there's 200 or so people still mad about the city running that road through their yards. Murphy's counting on their vote.

City hall, both downtown and where it now stands, is another example of the pocket principal. Murphy's new release on Friday referred to the new city hall as a "wet, white donkey." Wet refers to the anxiety in some quarters that city hall, built on top of springs, will some day sink out of sight. Spring Street, just across the way from the new building, wasn't named after a season of the year.

"White Donkey" is just a cute play on words. They could have used white elephant but that's the Republican symbol. Donkeys carry the Democrat banner.

The old city hall on Broadway is an issue tied in closely with what was once the old post office. The old post office is now a drive-in taco emporium overlooked by a clown circling high in the sky. It is doubtful if it will ever make the Landmark Preservation's list. The landmarks preservation people, to the contrary, are still burned at what happened to the post office and are fighting tooth and nail to make sure it doesn't happen to the old city hall. Another pocket of discontent.

ANOTHER KEY AREA in Murphy's campaign will be spending at city hall. Brian Smith, the Third Ward Republican raised the issue at the Jan. 12 budget meeting of the Council, noting that the city had overspent some $140,000 on a total of 56 counts. The Republicans chose not to follow that up at that time. They will, now.

Murphy has been criticized for standing on uptown street corners handing out his cards, but that's the heart of his campaign. Get around . . . to the people . . . remember me? . . . I'm Bob Murphy, etc. etc. Murphy has been getting around. We got this report back from another candidate for another office: "It's a peculiar campaign. Nobody's talking too much but when you talk to people, they seem to know an awful lot."

The key to Murphy's chances will be the support he gets from his fellow Republicans. One thing seems certain, at this point. The Republicans aren't working against him. The race will depend on how much they work for him.

GLEN STREET—As they say in the TV shows, "the story you are about to see is true. Only the names have been changed."

Upwards of 80 residents of Glen Street and its environs came out to city hall on Thursday night to protest a proposal to build a 200-unit apartment complex in their area. The people are concerned about their homes. The public hearing played about the same as previous public hearings on the Hess Project off Fairview Avenue and the arterial downtown.

All were concerned about their respective homes and their respective neighborhoods. But if there was anyone from Glen Street at the Hess hearing we missed it. And if there was anyone from Fairview Avenue at the Glen Street hearing we missed that. And if there was anyone from downtown at either hearing, we missed that too.

The issue is protection of our residential areas. And it is a city-wide problem. One can imagine the reaction of the politicians if that Thursday night meeting on Glen Street had been packed with homeowners from all over the city. Abject fear might be putting it mildly.

Glen Street won't be the last apartment proposed for a residential area of the city. Almost any residential area with open space is vulnerable to being separated and picked off. Ben Franklin put it rather nicely when he said, "Gentlemen, if we didn't hang together, we most assuredly will hang separately."

THE LEGISLATORS—Running for legislator in the city of Kingston isn't easy. The candidate must cover the entire city with a minimum of help and almost no issues. And he must run against 15 or 16 other guys.

The Republicans seem to have brought some kind of a system to their legislator races this year. Up at Republican headquarters on Wall Street, maps are maintained of each candidate's progress through the various areas of the city. There's a lot of ground to cover (about 125 miles of city streets) and there's a little time for duplication. Leading ground gainer at this point?—Stan Petro Sr. Petro may be the only candidate to hit every house in the city by Election Day.

Walt Maxwell and Bill Merrill, GOP candidates for legislator are doing something unique in legislator races, visibly supporting their GOP running mates. Both Maxwell and Merrill have the names of all the Republican candidates printed on their cards. They're the only ones we know of on either side that have done that.

FOOTNOTE—The Jaycees Winter Sports Show next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, will feature booths for Republican and Democratic candidates. This may be our last chance to catch most of the candidates under one roof. Anyone who would like a heart to heart talk with what may be his future is advised to stop in.

Man Thwarts Hold-up Men

POUGHKEPSIE—Emil Jacobucci, manager of Brenners Ice Cream Store in the Town of Poughkeepsie, armed with two fists, a flashlight and a lot of determination, fought off three would-be hold-up men late Friday night.

Town of Poughkeepsie police officials said that Jacobucci was leaving the store at about 10 p.m. Friday night when he was confronted by three black males who demanded that he turn over the money.

Jacobucci responded by striking one of the men in the head with a flashlight he was carrying, knocking the man to the

Pay, Price Group to Be Named

Phase Two of Economic Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — With less than a month remaining before Phase 2 of his economic policy takes effect, President Nixon reportedly is almost ready to name the members of the Pay Board and Price Commission that will have primary responsibility for making it work.

The White House said Friday members of the two groups, which will have chief responsibility for developing wage and price standards for the post-freeze period that begins Nov. 14, will be named within a few days.

They probably will hold their first meetings next week, the White House said. "It's important that these people gather next week to do the work the President has assigned," said Donald Rumsfeld, newly named director of the Cost of Living Council.

Despite the time factor, Rumsfeld said he doubted that the Cost of Living Council — which has been the chief enforcer of Phase 1 — would develop interim wage-price standards if the Pay Board and Price Commission fail to get them worked out by Nov. 13.

"I think it would not be useful to come up with an interim arrangement that would last only a few hours or a few days," Rumsfeld said.

"It's clear to the country," he said, "that the freeze remains in effect until something happens."

Rumsfeld also acknowledged that some persons who have been asked to serve on the two boards have declined.

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, meanwhile, signed orders giving the boards authority to "establish criteria, standards, and implementation procedures designed to stabilize wages and salaries" during Phase 2.

The move apparently was designed to allay fears of organized labor that actions by the boards would be subject to veto by the Cost-of-Living Council.

In other developments Friday:

The White House said it probably will send legislation to Congress next Monday or Tuesday that would extend Nixon's authority to control wages, prices and rents from April 30, 1972, to April 30, 1973. The bill also will call for new standby controls on interest rates and dividends, creation of a federal court to handle wage-price cases and subpoena powers for the Pay Board and Price Commission.

A trade agreement was announced between the United States and Japan, South Korea, Taiwan and Hong Kong to restrain the flow of noncotton textiles into the United States. As a result, the United States agreed to lift the 10 per cent import surcharge on those products.

Ford Motor Co. announced federally approved price increases on several 1972 models to reflect equipment changes on domestic models and the 6.5 per cent tax surcharge on imported cars and parts.

Viet Drug Program Tripled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The detoxification program for heroin users among American servicemen in Vietnam has been increased from four to 14 days.

Dr. Richard W. Wilbur, the Defense Department's health chief, said Friday the program time was more than tripled because it was found that after four days the users were still nervous and caused problems for nurses and air crewmen on evacuation planes leaving Vietnam.

Dr. Wilbur also said that, after only four days of treatment, heroin users were not yet ready to accept further rehabilitation treatment when they arrived in the United States.

Pentagon officials said of the 108,000 men tested for heroin use only 4,000 turned out to be what they called "confirmed positives." Of those, the number of hard-core addicts were estimated to be 400 to 800, they added.

Men flown back from Vietnam after only four days of treatment often were under sedation and were treated as litter patients, but after 14 days they can travel like any other soldier without sedation or restraint, Dr. Wilbur said.

Treaty Ratification Session in Japan

TOKYO (AP) — The government convened today a special session of the Diet, Japan's parliament, to seek ratification of the treaty with the United States returning Okinawa to Japan next year.

But political opponents of Prime Minister Eisaku Sato and his Liberal Democratic party promised to turn the 70-day session into a debate on Okinawa, economic relations with the United States and Japan's policy toward Communist China. Some said they will press for Sato's resignation.

Minority parties which oppose the Okinawa pact, signed last July 17, claim it allows the United States to maintain military bases on the island and possibly keep nuclear weapons there.

In Washington, The Senate Foreign Relations Committee announced it would open hearings Oct. 27 on the Okinawa treaty, the announcement came within hours after a U.S.-Japanese agreement was reached Friday on limiting Japan's textile exports to America.

Police said they mobilized about 6,000 riot policemen to guard the Diet and other key government buildings from possible violence in demonstrations planned by labor unions, leftist organizations and radical students.

The groups said they also will demand Sato's resignation and the scrapping of the Okinawa pact. Workers also oppose the government's economic policy, especially its acceptance of a U.S. demand for an agreement to restrict Japan's textile exports to America.

Pro-Peking members of Sato's party and leaders of leftist opposition parties said they will demand that the government withdraw its support of two U.S. resolutions in the United Nations designed to seal both Red China and Taiwan in the world organization. Opposition parties also plan to try to force through the Diet a resolution recognizing Peking as the legitimate government of China.

To counter these moves, the Liberal Democrats will submit a resolution calling for normalization of diplomatic relations between Japan and China and urging a quick solution to the two-Chinas problem. Japan currently recognizes only the Nationalist government, while carrying on some trade with the mainland.

Justice Chief Quits . . . Denies Wrongdoing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chief of the Justice Department's Criminal Division has resigned, denying any wrongdoing during his one-time association with a Texas financier now deeply involved in a banking scandal.

Will R. Wilson, assistant attorney general for the past 30 months, submitted his resignation to President Nixon in a four-page letter that never specifically mentioned Frank Sharp, the Texas businessman who is a former client of his and has been convicted of falsifying bank records.

The Justice Department, which made the letter public, consistently had supported Wilson in the face of continuing revelations about Sharp's financial dealings and Attorney General John N. Mitchell immediately expressed "deep regret" at Wilson's resignation.

But Wilson, a 60-year-old Democrat - turned - Republican, made clear that his decision to quit was prompted by the unrelenting criticism of his connection with Sharp.

"Events involving former clients which have unfolded in Texas in the past few months have, through no fault of mine, created difficulties and embarrassment which your administration should not be taxed with," Wilson told Nixon.

"I cannot permit any side issue to impede the federal drive against organized crime. And for the sake of my family and my friends, I cannot sit by and tolerate the character assassination which is currently being used as a political tactic . . . I must fight my own fight freed from the restraints of this office."

Wilson served as an attorney for some of Sharp's enterprises in the mid-1960's after stepping down as Texas attorney general to run for governor. He lost the race.

Wilson also has acknowledged borrowing large sums of money from Sharp prior to his appointment as chief of the Criminal Division and taking one substantial loan after another.

After being convicted, Sharp received only a light sentence and a fine in return for testimony he gave a federal grand jury about his dealings and their involvement with highly-placed Texas officials.

An investigation into Sharp's operations by the Securities and Exchange Commission has shaken Democratic politics in the state — touching Gov. Preston Smith and Elmer C. Baum, the recently resigned State Democratic Chairman who made quick profits in stock deals promoted by Sharp.

Texas House Speaker Gus F. Mutscher was indicted last month by a state grand jury in connection with alleged improper activities aimed at accelerating legislative consideration of two banking bills Sharp sought to have enacted. Indicted on related charges were two state and two federal bank examiners.

British Soldier Wounded

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—A British soldier was shot and wounded in Belfast today hours after attackers in a speeding automobile used a machine gun to shoot and kill two plainclothes policemen.

An army spokesman said the "very seriously" wounded soldier was shot after a clash with jeering youths in the Roman Catholic area of Belfast known as "The Bone." The soldier was not identified.

Another army spokesman said police plainclothesmen Cecil Cunningham, 46, and John Haslett, 21, were on patrol in an unmarked car near the Roman Catholic Ardoyne District Friday when they were killed.

A spokesman said the clash in the Bone area began when an army patrol stopped to disperse a gang of Roman Catholic youths congregated around the corners of Gracehill and Ardilea Streets.

Witnesses said the troops answered the youths' jeers by singing a few lines of "Where Have All the Flowers Gone." They were answered with a hail of bottles and rocks.

Abruptly, the youths melted away into the darkness of side streets, witnesses said, and two groups of men wielding automatic rifles moved out of the shadows, guns blazing.

Two armored scout cars came up the street and were caught by the fire. The soldier, thought to be a commander of one of the cars, was wounded, the army spokesman said.

The streets of the Bone returned almost immediately to normal and there were no further signs of disorder, the spokesman said.

The two plainclothesmen were killed when a machine gun was fired from a car which passed them as they sat in the unmarked patrol car at the corner of Twaddell Avenue and Woodvale Road.

Cambodian Agreement Is Reached

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—The Cambodian government today decided to strip the sometimes maverick National Assembly of all lawmaking powers and order it to write a new constitution, government sources said.

The sources said the decision to form a "Constituent Assembly" was a compromise between factions who favored ending the Parliament entirely or extending its mandate as a law making body.

The decision affects both upper and lower houses of the Cambodian Parliament, but is aimed primarily at the National Assembly which roughly equals the American House of Representatives.

The government sources said Chief of State Cheng Heng played the final mediating role between the government of the prime minister, Marshal Lon Nol, who favored letting the Assembly die when its mandate runs out Monday, and parliamentarians who wanted the mandate extended.

Under the Cambodian constitution, the chief of state is supposed to make the final decision on extending the life of the Assembly when elections are not possible but in fact its fate is decided by the cabinet.

The high command in Phnom Penh also reported today that Cambodian and Communist forces fought a bloody, hand-to-hand battle on the slopes of Mount Santuk Friday. A spokesman claimed 100 Viet Cong were killed while the Cambodians lost only 14 dead. In Saigon, military sources said today allied forces have stopped using a six-mile stretch of vital Highway 22 from the South Vietnamese base at Thien Ngan to Fire Base Pace near the Cambodian border because of renewed North Vietnamese pressure. Bases at the frontier are being resupplied by helicopter.

The high command spokesman in the Cambodian capital said the battle was centered on the lower slopes of the 600-foot high mountain 72 miles north of Phnom Penh. The Communists are well entrenched on the mountain. The spokesman said, "they have very big bunkers."

New Gallery at UCC Offering Shows Of Much More Variety

STONE RIDGE

In the just finished John Vanderlyn Hall on its Stone Ridge campus, Ulster County Community College this week opened its new, enlarged Visual Arts Gallery. The public got its first view of the gallery at a special reception last Tuesday afternoon.

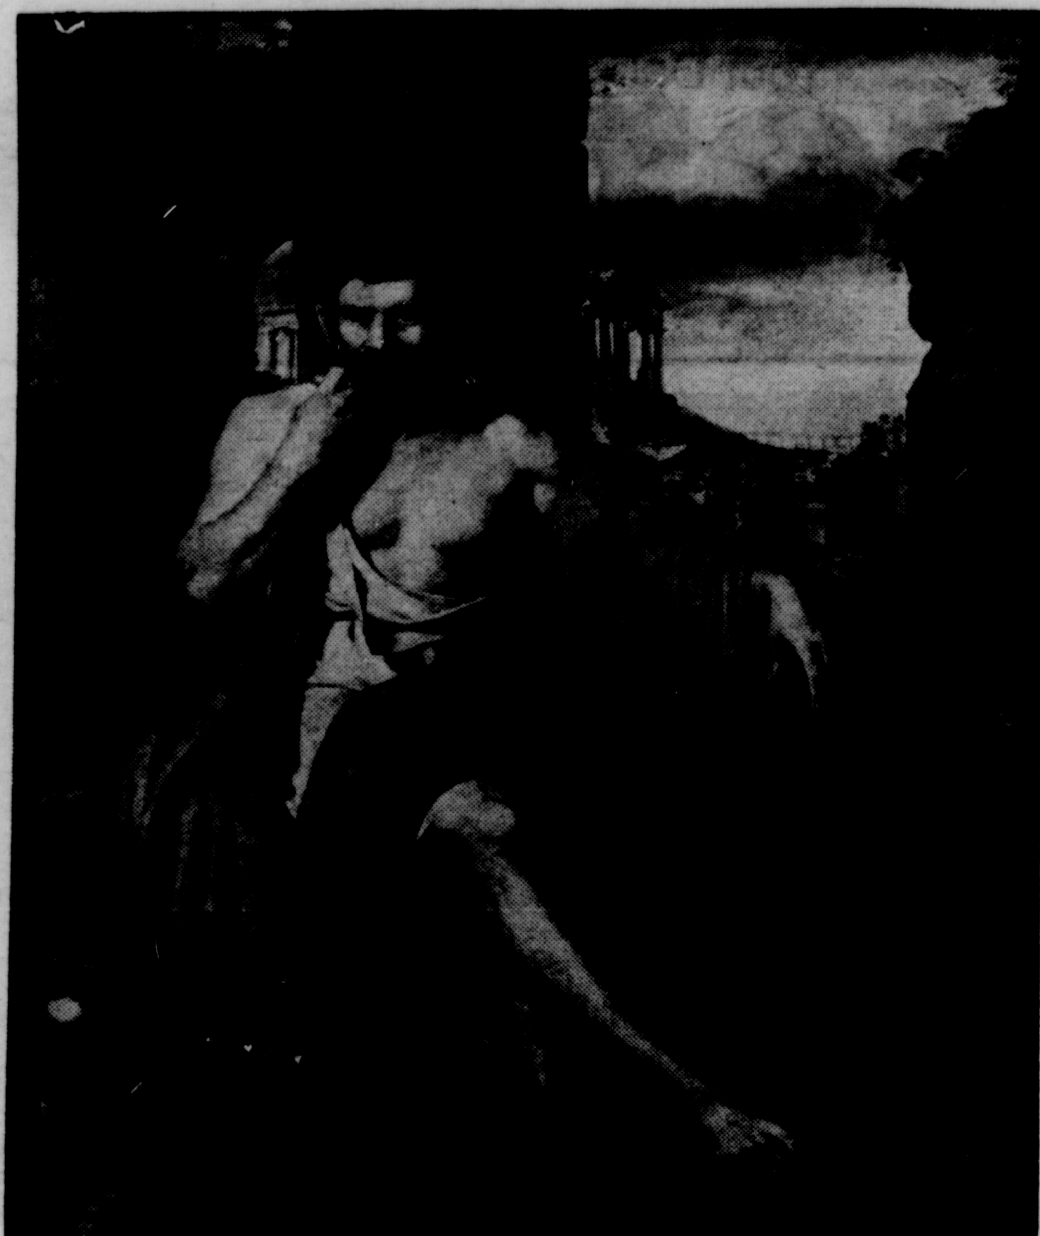

What visitors found on arrival was a main exhibition area called The Visual Arts Gallery, one that affords more space than the college had previously and one allowing for the exhibition of more varied kinds of art forms. A high ceiling permits the display of larger works of art, and the room is complete with platforms providing space for exhibiting sculpture. This arrangement also gives visitors a better view of art works shown.

The new art show area also includes the Showcase Gallery, containing individual display cabinets, particularly ideal for exhibiting ceramics, jewelry and three dimensional forms.

Three at a Time

There's also an adjoining reception area, slated for use

WAS AARON BURR, fallen from grace as American vice-president, the model for John Vanderlyn's first venture into monumental history painting? Many think his "Marius Amid the Ruins of Carthage" was inspired by Burr. The 1808 work brought the early Kingston painter recognition from the French government. He's being saluted anew with a selection of his drawings and paintings on exhibit at Ulster County Community College now.

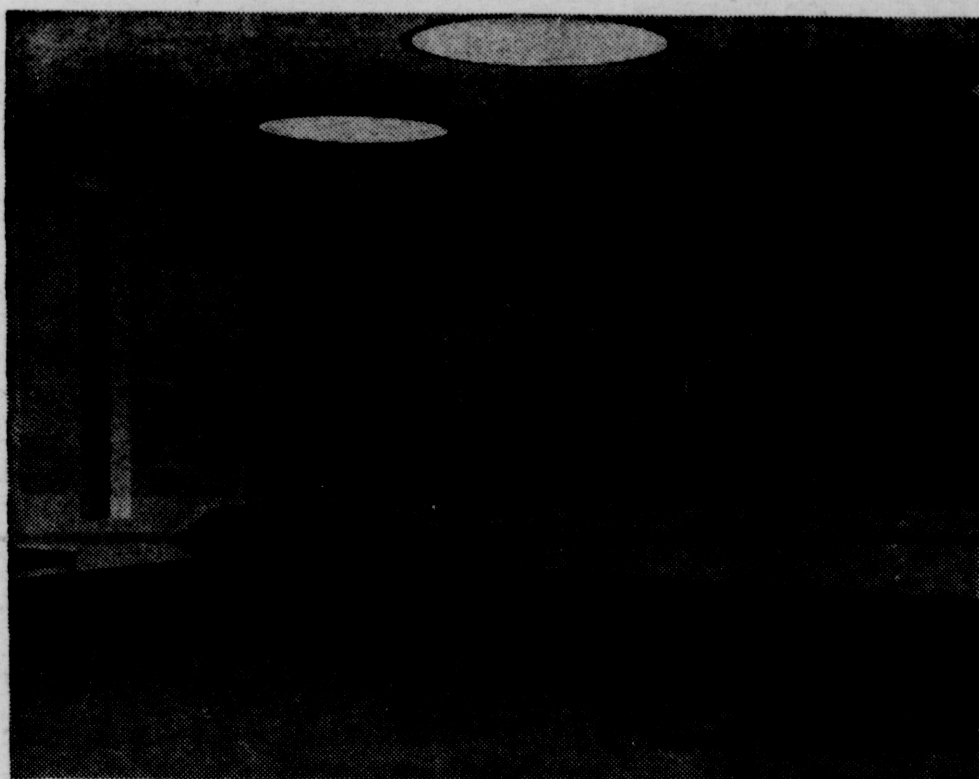

for the exhibit of the college's permanent art collection. All in all, UCCC now has three separate areas for exhibitions, making it possible to now show three exhibits at the same time — something that was impossible in the past in the former Science Building hall Art Gallery quarters.

Inspired thinking has gone into the first exhibit in the Visual Arts Gallery for, fittingly, the initial show features works by the internationally renowned Colonial artist, John Vanderlyn, one of Kingston's own and the man for whom the building was named.

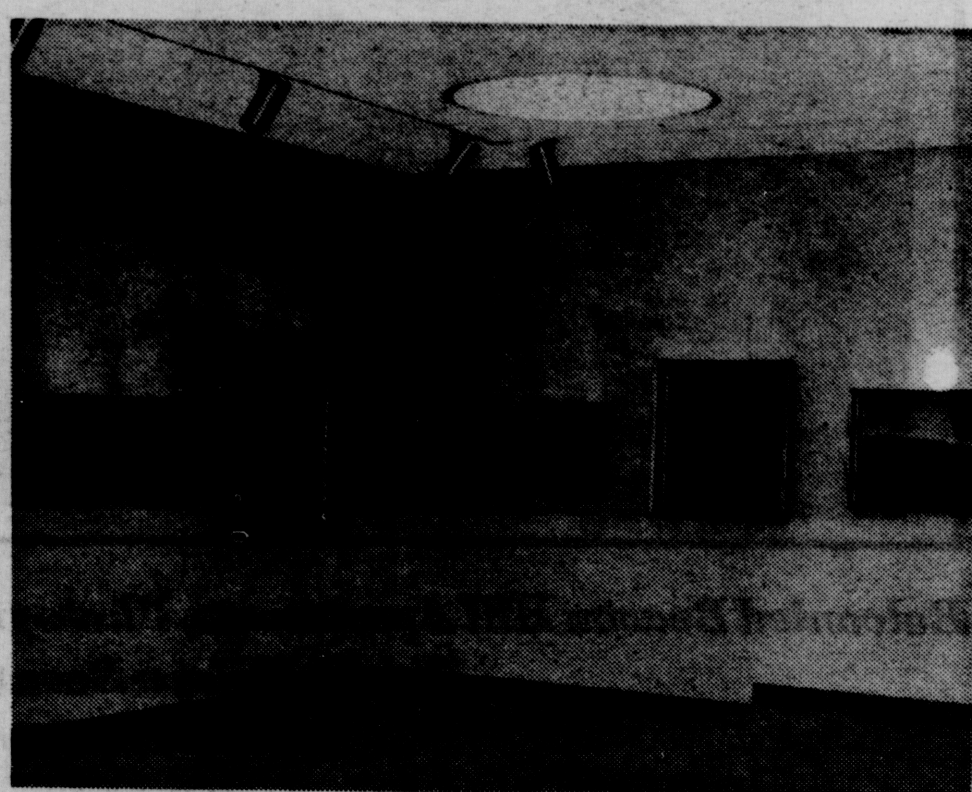

The Vanderlyn show comes in under the title, "Historical Perspective in Ulster County"; features more than 20 of his paintings and drawings, lent or donated by Kingston's Senate House Museum, Albany's Institute of History and Art, and private collectors.

Those who know something of Vanderlyn's career will remember he was born here in Kingston in 1775, rose to fame abroad, and died in poverty and despair back here in Kingston in 1852. A student of the great Gilbert Stuart, he was also the protege of Aaron Burr, who sent him to Paris and Rome to study. World-famed in his time, he caught the eye of Napoleon

THE NEW, ENLARGED Visual Arts Gallery in the just finished John Vanderlyn Hall on the Stone Ridge campus affords ample space for the Vanderlyn and other upcoming exhibits this year. For the first show, this wall has been utilized to frame studies of Vanderlyn's painting, "The Landing of Columbus" for the Rotunda of the Capitol in Washington, D. C., for which he was commissioned in 1837 by the U. S. Congress.

PORTRAITS, LANDSCAPES and a nude by Vanderlyn dominate this section of the new campus gallery. Big and roomy with high ceilings, it allows for the hanging of larger works of art than have ever been displayed at UCCC previously. It's a beautiful and modern addition to the Ulster County Cultural scene; contains a main exhibition area, The Showcase Gallery, and an adjoining reception area.

Brand New & Novel Are Photo Murals From Zena Prints

WEST HURLEY

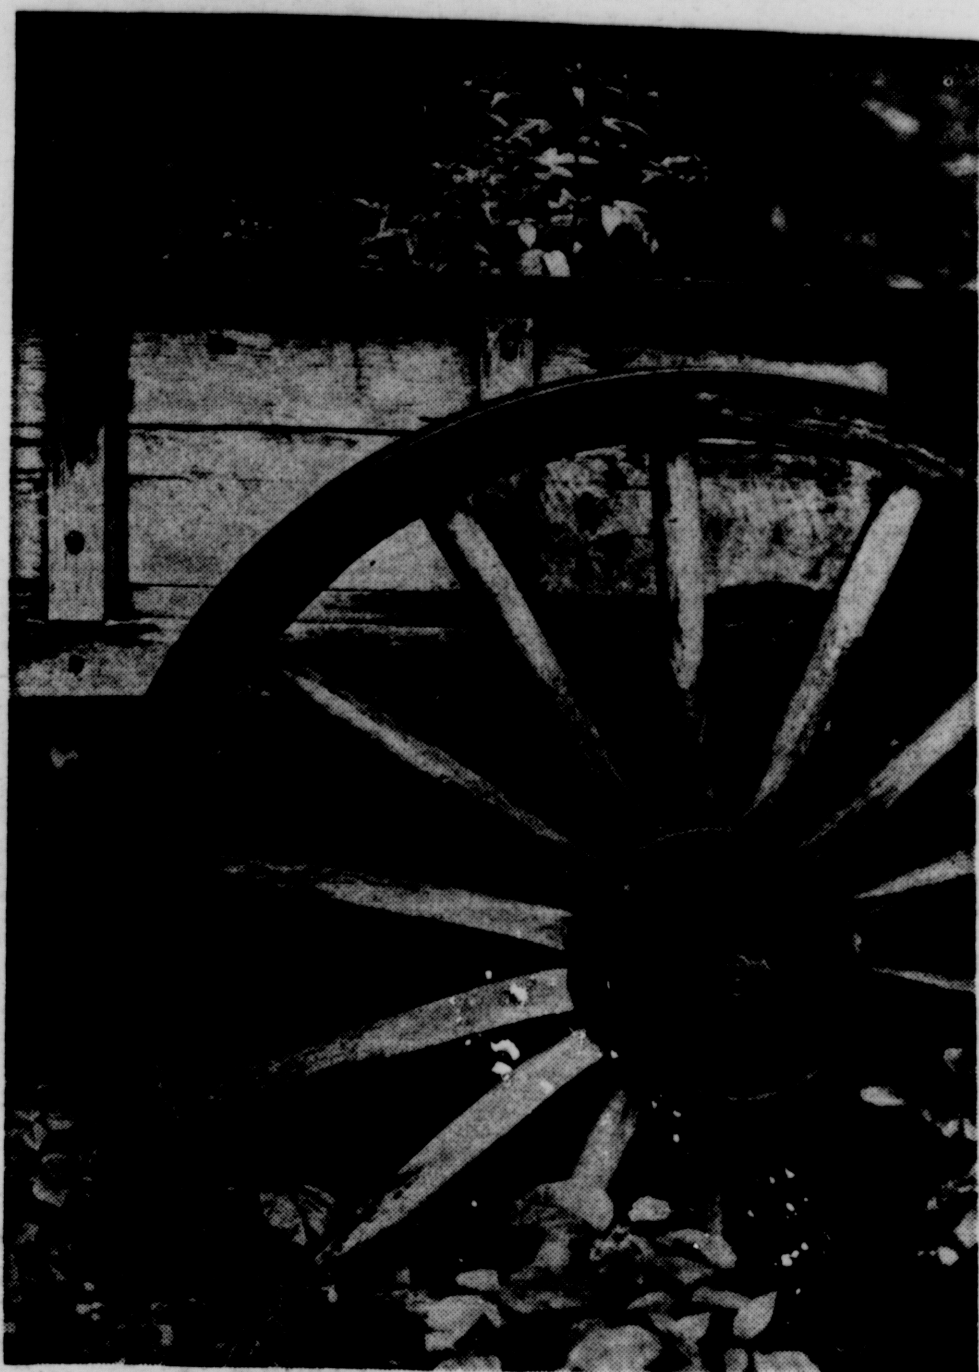

It's still possible to find something new under the sun, after all. Zena Prints, Box 128, West Hurley (near the junction of Route 28 and the Zena Road) is such a something new.

The brainchild of Woodstock photographer Erik Van Cort and his business-minded partner, Dietrich Werner, Zena Prints specializes in photographic murals for decorative purposes—to be used in business offices, restaurants and homes.

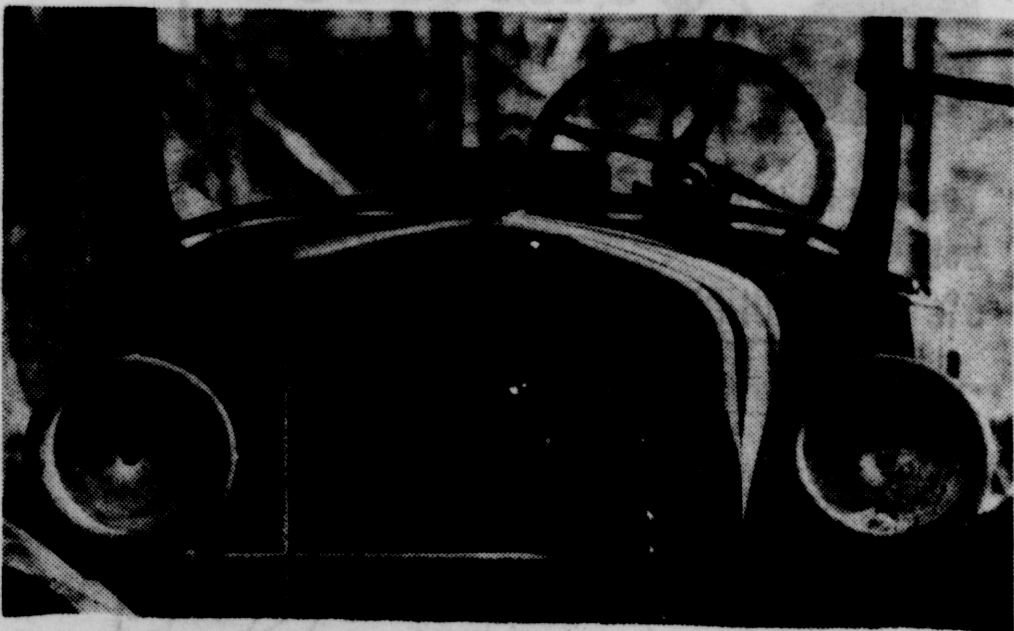

Oh, sure, we know people have been framing photographs and hanging them on walls for years. But these photo murals are different and diverting. Made from original photographs (all Cort), they are blown up, mounted, and framed on various types of background material such as cork or bright-colored burlap. They're also easily attached to walls via plungers mounted on the back.

The photos can stand on their own as works of art to begin with, but the background materials offset and add contrast to the photographs, making them the best conversation pieces around today. Perfect for interior decoration, they can be made to your order; often include several photos to a mural. One restaurant might profit from scenic shots of the town it's located in; another might want seaside or race track scenes, depending on its clientele. A car agency or garage would probably settle on antique auto or motoring shots. And no proud parent could resist a full-size photo mural of precious portraits of the family progeny. For furniture store and other businesses, the possibilities are unlimited.

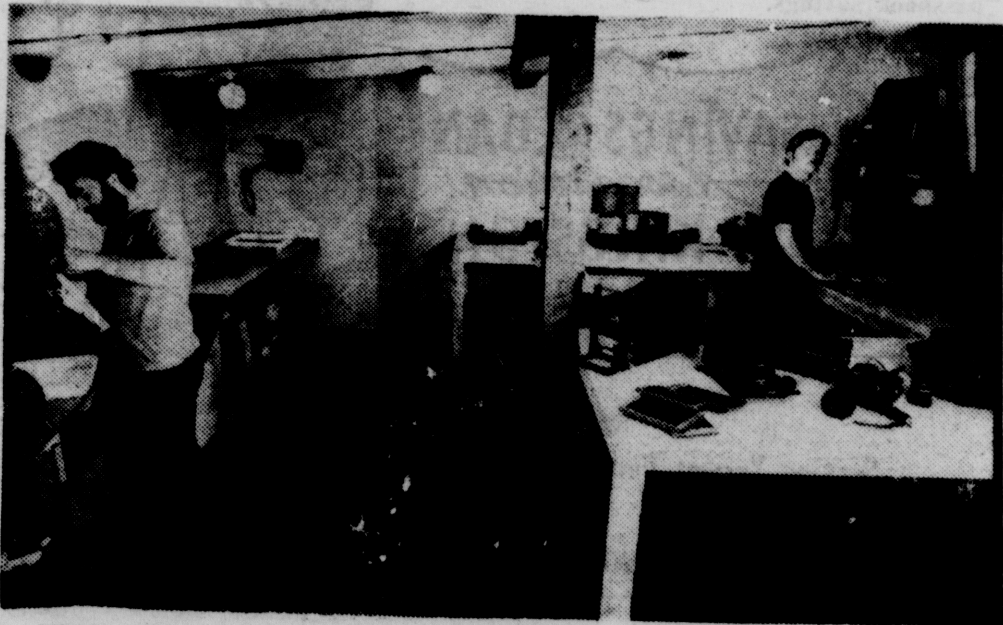

Interested? Stop by the studio (they built it themselves in two weeks) on the Zena Road, or call 679.6795

WAGON WHEEL, showing every indication that it has aged gracefully, is the subject of this Erik Van Cort photo. Pressed and mounted on burlap-covered plywood, it blossoms into a wall mural that would attract the eye of customers in any restaurant or business office.

MODEL T FORD (the car you could have in any color as long as it was black) makes for an artistic as well as a nostalgic photo as seen through Erik Van Cort's lens. The perfect mural for interior decoration in you know who's auto agency.

ERIK VAN CORT (L) prints a photograph, while Dietrich Werner processes another picture. Customers find their workroom near the junction of Route 28 and Zena Road a fascinating place to visit.

DIETRICH WERNER, one of the two partners in the new enterprise that is Zena Prints, dry mounts a photograph to be used on cork display mural in the firm's West Hurley headquarters.

BOULDER-STREWN but perfect beach in Brockport, N. H., caught the eye of photographer Van Cort on recent New England trip. Stunning in its impact and contrasts, it would be a pleasing mural for a restaurant specializing in seafood.

SHARING HONORS with Vanderlyn in the current campus art show (in the Showcase Gallery in Vanderlyn Hall) are the wood engravings of American landscapes by the late Macowin Tuttle (1861-1935). This example of his work is a picture perfect pondside scene. (All photos for this feature by Freeman photographer Bob Haines).

Bonaparte, who presented him with a gold medal in 1809 for his masterful painting, "Marius Amidst the Ruins of Carthage."

Columbus Drawings

A highlight of the UCCC show are preliminary studies and drawings for his painting of "The Landing of Columbus," commissioned by the U.S. Congress in 1837 for the Capitol Rotunda in Washington, D.C.

Vanderlyn was also the first American artist to face up to the naked flesh (his "Ariadne" stunned and shocked his countrymen), and the first man to build an art museum in the U.S. (The Rotunda in New York City). A fine portrait artist, he painted many of the greats of his time: George Washington, James Madison, Zachary Taylor, Washington Irving, Ulster County officials and landowners. At UCCC, his portraits vie with local, area and foreign landscapes and various sketches.

On exhibit at the same time (now through Oct. 29) in the Showcase Gallery in Vanderlyn Hall are wood engravings of American landscapes by the late Macowin Tuttle (1861-1935). Famed as an engraver, painter, illustrator, teacher and lecturer, he originated the Wood Gravure; produced the wooden block as a finished art form entirely independent of ink, paper or printing press. His engravings are in the Metropolitan Museum, Library of Congress and Smithsonian Institution.

A fascinating dual show, then, in UCCC's new, modern gallery—one that must be hailed as a fine addition to Ulster County's cultural life. By all means, see these excellent exhibits by two talents of the past. The new gallery is open to students, faculty and community, at no admission charge, from Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

A Creative Center

The UCCC gallery promises to become a center for creative activity; will have regularly changing exhibits aimed at extending the boundaries of aesthetic perception, stimulating inquiry, and nurturing the visual arts by presenting varied art forms.

The current show was arranged by Professor Ruth Mur-off, chairman, Department of Visual Arts, and a brochure listing the Art-Exhibition Series for the year is available by writing her at Ulster County Community College, Stone Ridge, N.Y. 12484.

Paltzers Picked

A painting by Mrs. Marjorie Sheldon and a mobile by Eric Snowden, both New Paltz artists, have been tapped for exhibition in a juried competition sponsored by the Dutchess County Art Association.

The two works by the Ulsterites, along with 74 other accepted paintings, drawings and other media are now on display at the Mitchell Furniture Company, 389 Main Street, Poughkeepsie.

The art show continues through Oct. 28 and is open to the public at no charge.

Jan Sterling Stars In Broadway Comedy On Middletown Stage

MIDDLETOWN

The current hit Broadway comedy, "BUTTERFLIES ARE FREE," will star Broadway and Hollywood actress Jan Sterling as the mother when it opens the Greater Middletown Arts Council's "Great Performance Series." The blonde Miss Sterling takes to the stage of Middletown High School in the role now being played on Broadway by Gloria Swanson on Friday night, Oct. 22.

A good choice of seats still remain at $4 — and at $2 in the student section. All $5.50 seats have been sold. And music lovers should note that the March 18 concert by Van Cliburn for Middletown's Arts Council has only a limited number of $5.50 seats and $3.50 students seats still available. All top priced seats have already been sold for Van Cliburn.

"Butterflies" is the sophisticated comedy by Leonard Gershe that's based on the true life experience of a Harvard law student, blind since the age of nine. In the play, the blind young man leaves his over-protective mother and goes to Greenwich Village to live. He finds excitement and romance with a kookie little actress in the next apartment. Needless to say, mother becomes less and less important as his new interests grow more and more delightful.

Still Selling Out

New York Times drama critic Walter Kerr called "Butterflies" the "best play of the season" when it first opened on Broadway. It still plays to sold out houses in New York.

Tickets for "Butterflies" and other attractions in the Arts Council's series may be obtained by sending reservations to Greater Middletown Arts Council, 40 Mulberry Street, Middletown, N.Y. 10940 or at the Council's office at that address. Tickets may be reserved by mail by calling 342-2133.

Other attractions in the series are: Dance Theatre of Harlem, Sunday, 3 p.m. on Dec. 19; National Ballet of Washington dancing a full length "Coppelia" on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 13; Van Cliburn, Saturday, March 18; and the off-Broadway musical revue "Jacques Brel Is Alive And Well And Living In Paris." Tickets are $5.50, $4, and $2 in the student section for all attractions, except for Van Cliburn's concert which is $5.50 and $3.50 for students.

CLASSICAL GUITARIST JEFFREY SWERDLOW

Classical Guitarist For Abrams Classes

KINGSTON
The American Guitar Society out in Hollywood and the Classic Guitar Society of New York have both bestowed high praise on solo performer Jeffrey Swerdlow.

As a prominent member of the New York group, who later became a resident of Los Angeles, he has been acclaimed for excellent performances in programs for both Societies on both coasts.

Swerdlow's mastery of the classical guitar is equally at home with Handel, Scarlatti, Bach, de Filippi, Albeniz, and many another composer of sonatas, preludes, suites and waltzes.

He'll Teach Here

Now, Abrams Music Store, 302 Wall Street, Kingston, has made arrangements for this outstanding guitar performer to teach classical guitar lessons there. The number of days a week instruction will be given will depend on the response, and those interested should call Abrams now for appointments.

Swerdlow comes to Kingston with the highest recommendations of California composer Amedeo de Filippi, who commends him as "a fine musician, guitarist, and teacher," one who has been "most helpful in the editing and fingering" of de Filippi's guitar pieces as his collaborator.

Grand Marshal Welk

Grand Marshal of the Tournament of Roses Parade in Pasadena, Calif., next Jan. 1 will be maestro Lawrence Welk, who is doing very well this new video season with his syndicated program after years as an ABC network mainstay.

New Comic Strip

The popular "Sesame Street" educational series for children of tender age spins off into a newspaper comic strip for King Features Syndicate on Nov. 15, the date when the program begins its third video season.

Swerdlow's additional credentials include a degree from New York City's Mannes College of Music, where he earned the admiration of Leonid Bolotine, head of the Classical Guitar Department; further study in the master classes at the Accademia Chigiana in Siena, Italy, with Alirio Diaz (Segovia's assistant); and a period as instructor at Westchester Conservatory of Music, White Plains, for several years. As both recitalist and teacher, he is considered one of the best, and his classes at Abrams should prove popular.

All-New Rhinebeck 'Halloween House'

It's that time of year again — time for ghouls, ghosts and things that go bump in the night.

Geared to scare the admiring fan of horror half to death is the old Beekman Arms barn in Rhinebeck, and — once again this year — it'll be cloaked in mystery and darkness for Halloween.

The 1971 version of the Dutchess County community's Halloween House will burgeon with hair-tingling devices, vampires, and afterlife apparitions. Already a committee chaired by Peter Troy and made up of Rotary Club members and many local residents is hard at work setting up an entirely new show inside the musty barn for month's end. They've chased out all the black widow spiders and skeletons from last year; will fill the halls with new ghosts and ghouls of more horrible description.

Rhinebeck's Halloween House is now in its fourth year; has proved so popular that more than 6,000 venturesome souls filed down its dim corridors last year and all lived to tell the tale. This year's edition will have more of everything, and it's still suggested that children of seven and under be accompanied by an adult.

The Halloween House project was conceived in the spirit of All Saint's Eve fun and entertainment for one and all. It follows, then, that those who work long and hard to put it all together enjoy it as much as those who visit the fun house.

This year, the House will be open for four evenings: Oct. 28 and 29 from 4-9 p.m., and Oct. 30 and 31 from 2-10 p.m. The planned hours should give everybody who wants to take the horror tour a chance to attend, and Ulsterites are invited, as well as Dutchess residents.

CHARLTON HESTON, the last man alive, has found he's not alone after searching for two years for other people. He's gotten together with what may be the world's last woman (Rosalind Cash) and now the question is, will they make it together with the earth's population destroyed by a killer germ caused by Biological Warfare. Scene's from the science-fiction film, "THE OMEGA MAN," now playing at Kingston's Mayfair Theatre.

KINDLY COBBLER — Laurence Harvey plays the kindly Cobbler who, once upon a time, was so afraid five little orphans would be forgotten on Christmas, that he neglected his own work to make them each a Good Luck Elf. Scene's from "The Wonderful World of the Brothers Grimm," set for special children's matinees this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon at Kingston's Community.

MOVIES

The Omega Man

The world of fantasy is always with us—and never more so than in "The Omega Man," the science-fiction film now playing at Kingston's Mayfair.

The story reduces the earth's population to one man (tall and handsome) and one girl (young and pretty). Seems that Charlton Heston is a medical researcher who thinks he's the only person to have survived a plague touched off by germ warfare until he spots Rosalind Cash, who's actually one of a few young people who have also survived the biological onslaught.

But, here's the rub. In addition to the healthy survivors of the plague, there's a group of grotesque survivors who call themselves The Family. They blame their plight on modern technology and see Heston as the last manifestation of it. To avoid death at the hands of The Family, Heston barricades himself in an apartment (and lives royally with Miss Cash on the best the city's unmanned stores can offer).

From there on in, the most extreme situations of fantasy are made to look as realistic as possible and—if you're a sci-fi fan—you'll find it right up your alley. We happen to get a boff out of sci-fi ourselves, and found it entertaining to see Heston trying to save what's left of the world instead of fighting it out on the planet of the apes, his usual habitat in recent years.

Bunny O'Hare and Bloody Mama

This double header at Kingston's Community currently is a bonanza for Bette Davis and Shelley Winters fans.

In "Bunny O'Hare," the durable and always great to watch Miss Davis teams with Ernest Borgnine. Its' strictly for giggles as the two portray hippie outlaws on motorcycles.

"Bloody Mama" is a give 'em lots of guns, robberies and violence movie, based on the story of Ma Barker and her brood. Burgeoning with mayhem, murder and perversity, it documents the most famous mom of gangster days, who plotted perfect heists for sons and their buddies until they got too wise for their own good. Best thing about the film is Shelly Winters as Ma. She turns in an interesting performance as a woman who thinks her sons can do no wrong, but must watch them ignore her advice that a successful criminal stays away from booze and broads.

The Wonderful World Of Brothers Grimm

All the magic of the world's greatest story tellers and the enchantment of a star-studded cast, bring delightful entertainment for children to the Harvey, Karl Boehm, Claire Bloom, Yvette Mimieux, Russ Tamblyn, Jim Backus, Terry-Thomas and Buddy Hackett. No special kiddies show matinee today and tomorrow.

By all means, make sure your youngsters see "The Wonderful World of the Brothers Grimm," the spectacular and imaginative movie about Wilhelm and Jacob Grimm and their long struggle for recognition. Interspersed with the story are three of their best-loved tales — The Dancing Princess, The Cobbler and the Elves, and The Singing Bone.

Beautiful color, gorgeous Rhine Valley scenery, Oscar-winning costumes, and such great stars as Laurence

In addition to the three main fairy tales, other famous Grimm characters (Tom Thumb, Cinderella, Little Red Riding Hood, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, Hansel and Gretel, the Frog Prince, The Queen Bee and Reupelstiltskin) also appear.

CASA BLANO NO. 6, MEXICO was the subject for this watercolor by High Woods artist William Lawrence Ryan. It's now on view with many of his other works in a special exhibition at the Woodstock branch of Rondout National Bank.

THE RANCH CHURCH in Guanajuato, Mexico is an example of the colorful interpretations of artist Bill Ryan. Art lovers may view his Bermuda, Mexico, West Indies and Ireland paintings currently at Woodstock's Rondout Bank.

Robust Watercolors By 'Artist-Sailor'

WOODSTOCK Art-lovers, and artists too, are invited to view a substantial collection of water color paintings by William Lawrence Ryan of High Woods in an exhibition at the Woodstock branch of Rondout National Bank, Bradley Meadows Plaza, Route 212, Woodstock, at the edge of the village. Hours 9-3 Mon.-Fri. and 6 to 8 Friday evenings.

Although Bill Ryan is a lifetime artist and a long-time resident of High Woods, this exhibit is the first local presentation of his work, which is scattered in many private and museum collections, in university and government murals and numerous publications. It is a refreshing introduction to the artist and his work.

Any thumb-nail sketch of Ryan would include two graphic words, "able-bodied," tied to the robustness of his work in the pure watercolor medium and his intimate associations and knowledge of the sea. Although the current exhibit is primarily of subjects from land travels in Ireland, Mexico and West Indies, it is not land-locked. (He made his first voyage to Africa at age 15.)

Artist-Sailor

This Artist-Sailor: A graduate of New York University School of Education, a graduate of Cooper Union; a graduate of the United States Maritime Service

Officers School, Fort Trumbull, Connecticut—commissioned Ensign; USMM unlimited license (any tonnage, any ocean); five-year war record, World War II, 2½ yrs. actual sea duty, all theaters, from able-bodied seaman to Lt., Sr. Grade. He survived two ships lost in combat, one to Japanese aircraft in the Bay of Bengal—another to German submarine action in the Caribbean.

He also taught navigation and edited, illustrated and produced the first standard United States Maritime Service Training Manuals (for training all U.S. Merchant Marine personnel—World War II). While attached to Headquarters Staff, organized the U.S. Maritime Service Training Aids Unit and produced hundreds of charts, posters and films. He was also Editor-in-Chief and Art Director of MAST Magazine, official organ of the U.S. Maritime Service and Advertising Director of the USMS Institute.

A successful art director after the war, he has occasionally taught layout and design in private schools and for several years gave a series of demonstrations in watercolor technique for the School Art League in New York City. Skilled in the graphic arts, he has a unique collector's interest in antique typography and ancient keys.

In all of the 15 varied watercolor paintings on view at the Rondout National Bank, Ryan's mastery of his favorite medium—pure aquarelle—and his sensitivity to subject and robust use of color are gladdening and keen. Go see for yourself!

Maggie in Film

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Maggie Smith's first screen role since winning the best actress Oscar for "Miss Jean Brodie" is "The Widower" for Columbia pictures.

Theme Song

NEW YORK (UPI) — The theme song for the new CBS weekly series, "Funny Girl," starring Sandy Duncan, is the creation of lyricists Alan and Marilyn Bergman and composer Dave Grusin. Singing star Jack Jones recorded it for the video program and as a single for RCA Records.

Carefree Musical For Coach House: Colorful 'MAME'

KINGSTON

One of the longest run musical hits in U.S. stage history, "MAME," with more than three years on Broadway to its credit, is coming to the J. Watson Bailey School here. Set for presentation by Coach House Players, the colorful musical will run three nights: Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 18, 19 and 20, with an 8:30 curtain.

Cast in the title role of the famed, vivacious belle is Carol Casper of Woodstock, who lives in the art colony with husband Ralph and three children. The most attractive Carol was born in the wilds of North Michigan; moved to this area four years ago; was featured as one of the nuns in the Coach House production of "The Sound of Music" last fall. A member of her local church choir and of Onteora Summer Chorus, she's also an avid yoga student and talented artist. To her role of homemaker, she has added many hours manning the telephone hot line for a community crisis center.

Other talents featured in the cast of "MAME" are: Eric Gallo as the young Patrick Dennis; Bob Santero as Patrick from 18 to 29; Linda Quartell as Agnes Gooch, Patrick's governess; Connie McCarthy as Vera, Mame's best friend; Jerry Brennan as Beau; Marge Kelly as Madame Branislowski; Nancy Sack as Mother Burnside; Al Sparks as Babcock; Norm Shapiro as Lindsay; Terri Serravallo as Cousin Fan; and a large, musically-inclined chorus.

A Popular Heroine

Theatre buffs know full well that the carefree character at the center of this musical has become one of the all-time popular heroines, going through such successful incarnations that—with this song and dance version—she's become almost a figure of American folklore. But that's far too serious a label for a jolly female like Mame.

The public first encountered Mame in the novel, "Auntie Mame" by Patrick Dennis. Two years later, "Auntie Mame" flounced through a triumphant stage play by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee. Mame's story remains much the same in this latest musical version, the tale of a gay, flamboyant madcap of the Roaring '20s who takes over guardianship of an orphaned, 10-year-old nephew in the midst of one of her huge cocktail parties, burgeoning with Manhattan celebrities, wits and weirdos.

Carrying on through the 1929 financial crash that wipes her out, she avoids the stringencies of the depression by marriage to a wealthy scion of the old South, eventually finds herself an affluent widow. An enduring enemy of dullness and Philistinism, Mame gets a jolt when her adored but now grown up nephew falls in love with a brainless nitwit. Leave it to Mame, however, to demolish that match and get Patrick hitched to a girl worthy of the extra-dry martini training she has given him.

Rehearsals for "MAME" are progressing briskly at Coach House under the direction of Bill Skilling, who's putting his talented actors through the paces; working them hard to recreate the many great musical numbers that pepper the entire show.

Those Production People

Hard work, too, is required from the production personnel for a musical of this magnitude and rendering yeoman service backstage are: George Quartrell, production manager; George Mine, stage manager; Carmella DeCamillis, pianist; Caddy and Buddy Gardner, set design, building and lighting; Chris Beall, lighting; Terri Serravallo, makeup; Bill Chavis, costumes; Dorothy Scholl, publicity; Bill Hawk, programs; and Kay Finn, single ticket sale. Add a large group of back stage painters, carpenters and general handymen, vital to the presentation of any quality show, and you've got a big crew working for your viewing pleasure of "MAME."

Plan now to purchase your seats for this Coach House production in November, and to spend an evening with the indestructible Mame, who promises to guarantee you a good time.

Densen Winner At Berkshire

WOODSTOCK Woodstock artist Michael Densen was one of the top prize-winners at the 20th Anniversary Show of Painting and Sculpture, Berkshire Museum, Pittsfield, Mass. He was awarded the North Adams State College $500 Purchase Prize for his aerial landscape of the Catskills, entitled "Banking."

The Woodstock art colony was well represented in this all-important show by the works of Franklin Alexander, Carole Uehara, Robert Angeloch, Christie Medved, Doris Lee and Albert Handell, all in addition to prize-winner Densen.

The Annual Fall Exhibition at the nearby New England museum is one of the major art events in the northeast, and is open to artist residents of the New England states and New York. The juror for this year's show was John I. H. Baur, director of the Whitney Museum of American Art, New York City.

The autumn exhibition will run from now through October's end and is always open to the public.

More 'Godfather'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Mario Puzo signed with Paramount studios to write a screenplay sequel to his novel, "The Godfather," which will be released in film version next year.

'Carry Nation'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — American International, capitalizing on the women's lib movement, will film "Carry Nation," dramatizing the activities of the turn-of-the-century feminine crusader.

McQueen as Robber

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Paramount Pictures and Solar Productions will star Steve McQueen in "The Getaway" in which the star will portray a professional bank robber.

POTPOURRI
 By JOAN L. WOINOSKI
 Searching for La Rive Restaurant on Old King's Road in Catskill could become a career; but once found, it's well worth the effort.
 By the time one's traveled up, up and along on everything from bumpy dirt roads loaded with ruts to practically one-lane cow paths, he's ready to take sudden turn in opposite direction. However, there's a welcome oasis in the desert; it's in the form of a well-placed sign sayin': "A little bit more," and it saves the day, prevents despair, and puts one in the runnin' for a super sleuth badge.
 To prove a point: one recent Sunday we were first guests to arrive for 4:30 seating. Blank faces must've echoed our confusion 'cause owner Rene Macary (known as Mr. Rene) met us at the door with "What's the matter? Don't you believe it?"

Inside the converted home-restaurant, there's a cozy, closed-in sunporch dressed up like a dining room with colorful shutters, hanging bird cages, vases of wheat, attractive china, plenty o' pictures, knick-knacks galore. Another dining room is featured off from the kitchen where Henri, the French chef, is hero-at-the-bakehouse. Christened La Rive — which is is French for "the bank" — the restaurant sets on "the bank" of a hill overlooking mountain stream.
 While waitin' to order, waiter John — who is known fondly as "Monaco" 'cause he hails from Princess Grace's bailiwick — serves somethin' like 10 varieties of hors d'oeuvres a la Parisienne: celery root, assorted salads, seafood delicacies, cucumbers in sour cream, beets, salami.

Left side of menu is en francais, if you can handle it. Translated the entrees include Shrimp with Sauce Maison; Seafood in Pancake, Sauce Mornay; Frogs Leg in Garlic Sauce; Duckling with Orange Sauce; Sliced Filet Mignon; Veal 'n Mushrooms; Breasts of Cornish Hen stuffed with wild rice, plus daily specials.

Onion soup and lobster bisque are La Rive headliners, seasoned with finesse. For a finale, there's creamy Muenster cheese and bowl of fresh seasonal fruit — after one has had his parfait or frozen eclair, of course. No need to push panic button as far as prices are concerned; dinners range from $6.25 to $16 (and the $16 takes care of double sirloin for two, comprenez?).

Just about this time of year, La Rive patrons get to playin' 10 Little Indians and they're now down to two. Translated that means they're sadly countin' the weeks 'til Oct. 31 when restaurant closes down for winter. In its third season, La Rive opens each year around Easter with hours 5:30 to 9:30 Tuesday thru Friday, Saturday 5:30 to 10:30, Sunday at 4:30 — closed Monday. Proprietors Paulette and Rene used the last couple winters visiting Arizona and touring Europe, and intend to take off for parts unknown once more . . . who knows where this year!

But one thing's for sure, there'll be an area reservation line of diners who'll be awaitin' the return of spring next year — especially Easter season! (And, especially, those who know the way!)

That Hit Melodrama, 'Petrified Forest,' Readied for Marist

POUGHKEEPSIE
The stage of Marist College Theater is beginning to sprawl with the excitement of the love of a vagabond writer and a pretty waitress, amid the gunplay of a gangster's getaway. Marist College Theatre Guild is now rehearsing for its presentation of "The Petrified Forest," opening at 8:30 on Oct. 27 and to be repeated for four performances through Oct. 31.

Set in a lunchroom oasis on the isolated Arizona desert, close by the natural wonder of the West which gave the play its title, the roaring melodrama was written by Robert Sherwood, three-time winner of the Pulitzer Prize, author of the movie "The Best Years of Our Lives," and of the best-selling biography, "Roosevelt and Hopkins."

Told in the thrilling terms of gusty drama at its best, Sherwood's play has deeper meaning that warns of the dangers of our civilization becoming as fossilized as the petrified forest, and even more frightening and thought-provoking implications that touch on the problems of our actual survival. First produced successfully in New York and London at a time when the world's citizens had only started to clear away the debris of the depression, "The Petrified Forest" is more timely than ever in the post-Hiroshima era.

In Top Roles

Rich Checchia has been cast as the disillusioned writer, Alan Squier, played by Leslie Howard in the original New York production, which ran for 181 performances, and in the screen version. In the part of Gabby Maple, which was one of Betty Davis' screen triumphs, will be Katherine McCarty, playing the lunchroom waitress Squier loves, a girl who dreams of escaping her humdrum life to study painting in France.

Frank DeKoskie will be seen as Duke Mantee, the murderous gang leader who provides Squier with the hope that he can, in death, accomplish the worth-while "something to believe in" that he never achieved during his frustrated life.

Paul Tesora and Bill Sprague will be seen in other leading roles.

RECORDS

Mary Steps Out Solo

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — For 10 years she didn't have a last name. She was the husky-voiced blonde sandwiched on stage between Peter and Paul, known only as "Mary" on album covers.

Now, after the final fadeout of one of the country's most successful folk singing groups, the female member of Peter, Paul and Mary has launched a solo singing career as Mary Travers.

Appropriately her first album is titled simply, "Mary."

Solo Shy

"I didn't want to be a solo performer," she admits. "It bothered me when the group broke up. I didn't know what I was about. For 10 years I had an edited viewpoint and I didn't have to ask myself if I was talented."

The answer to that question seems already obvious. Mary scored a smash in a recent Hollywood nightclub stint, and her Warner Brothers album sold 100,000 copies in its first month out and is getting heavy airplay.

Still, the lady with the lanky blonde hair hanging around her round face says she had the jitters facing an audience alone. At her nightclub show, she told the audience, "This is the first time I've performed at a club and I have to get used to it. When two people in the audience start talking to each other, I forget the words to the song."

Lewis Dramatic

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Jerry Lewis, long out of movie action, will star in and direct his first dramatic film, "The Day the Clown Cried."

I'm singing, and I want to hear what they're talking about."

Mary, 34, says the trio which had such hits as "Blowing in the Wind," "If I Had a Hammer" and "In the Evening on a Jet Plane," broke up for various reasons—mainly because Paul Stokely got tired of the constant travel of road show engagements.

Different Types

"Three more different people never breathed," she says. "Peter was studious, pedantic, tense. Paul was an easy-going Midwesterner. And although he worked methodically, he was loose."

The group was formed in 1961, and its records still are top sellers. Between 1962 and 1967 they did 125 concerts a year, later cutting down to 40 a year when the toll on energy became heavy.

"The reason I think we lasted so long is that the three of us had been brought up with a sense of discipline. We were careful not to manipulate each other. When you give someone that freedom you take away the structure of rebellion."

When the split came, she never even contemplated retirement. Working, she says, "is natural for me. I'm not someone who sits at home depending on crumbs of affection from my children."

She and her husband, publicist Gerald Taylor, have four children by former marriages—two his, two hers. Their home base is New York but Mary is on the road a good deal, showing off her new image and acquainting audiences with a new singer—Mary, with two names.

The Love Machine and Doctors' Wives

At the Sunset Drive-In currently, it's Dyan Cannon weekend. She has a major role in "The Love Machine," based on the best seller by Jacqueline Susann, and all about the rise and fall of a TV executive (John Philip Law), who uses women as Women's Lib says they shouldn't be used to get to the top. Dyan, who's married to Law's boss (Robert Ryan), helps push the young climber to the top when her hubby suffers a coronary. But the user of women gets his just deserts when hubby recovers.

Miss Cannon also lends her presence to "Doctors' Wives," a sort of campy and bad taste flick that's almost funny because of its outrageous soap opera plot turns. Story's all about a small group of California physicians and their spouses who seem to spend more time playing musical beds than they do operating or housekeeping. Others in the large cast include George Gaynes as the married Dyan's amour, Janice Rule and Richard Crenna as husband and wife, Carroll O'Connor and Cara Williams as an alcoholic couple who will probably survive a fractured marriage, and John Colicos as a villainous brain surgeon.

For night owls, the Sunset is offering "THE FOX" tonight at 12 midnight. Based on the D. H. Lawrence story about a lesbian relationship and the handsome young man who turns it to tragedy, it stars Sandy Dennis, Anne Heywood, Keir Dullea; was scripted by Woodstocker Howard Koch, an Oscar winner for his "Casablanca."

Ballet Troupe's Annual Auditions

POUGHKEEPSIE
Mid-Hudson Regional Ballet Company will hold its annual auditions Sunday, Oct. 17 at 2:30 p.m. at Estelle & Alfonso's Studio, 109 Cannon Street, Poughkeepsie.

The state chartered company, of non-profit status and in existence since 1959 when the late Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt introduced it to the public, will accept a limited number of trained adults and teenagers for the Senior Performing Company and some young ballet dancers for the Junior Training Company (minimum age 11 by Dec. 1).

Mid-Hudson Regional Ballet Company annually hosts and appears in "Invitational Ballet," presented free of charge to the public at Poughkeepsie High School. Dancers have performed at the New York State Pavilion of the World's Fair and the International Pavilion at Expo '67 in Canada. They have appeared at the New York State Dance Festival, Miss Dutchess County Pageant, Northeast Regional Ballet Festival, Ted Shawn Theatre at Jacob's Pillow, Mass. ## All New Program By Collarmen BOICEVILLE The Collarmen, one of the most popular instrumental and singing groups home-based in the Hudson Valley, will present their newly organized 1971 version and an all-new program next week in the Onteora High School Auditorium, Boiceville.

The Collarmen, as most musical enthusiasts know, hail from Mount St. Alphonsus, the Redemptorist Seminary in Esopus. Widely known throughout the Hudson Valley and thoroughly enjoyed by any audience that has ever heard them, they'll appear in concert at Onteora on Friday, Oct. 22 at 8 p.m.

The program, which should prove an extremely popular one, is being sponsored by the Onteora Chapter, American Field Service, (AFS) International Scholarships, headed by president Mrs. J. G. Crost of Woodstock. The Student Club, AFS, is cooperating in the ticket sale; will also host the refreshments to be sold that evening. Bob Zoehfeld, Student Club president, recently returned from Switzerland as an exchange student, heads this committee.

A New Year, a New Group

The Collarmen group changes each year with each graduation at the Esopus Seminary, but each succeeding group is musically superlative. This year's group (pictured above from L-R) includes: Art Mildenberger, Chicago, Ill.; Jerry Moody, St. Thomas, Virgin Islands; Marty Marquez, Omaha, Neb.; Paul Knapp, Baltimore, Md.; the Rev. Gerry La Porte, New Orleans, La.; Sam Maranto, Baton Rouge, La.; the Rev. Norm Bennett, Virginia Beach, Va.

AFS co-chairmen for this very special entertainment event are Mrs. George Holzman, Park Drive, Woodstock, and Mrs. Charles Weidman, Woodstock. Tickets are available from them and, also, from various shops in the Onteora area, members of the committee, at the AFS Booth in the OCS high school building, and at the door on the evening of Oct. 22.
